[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] MANILA, Aug. 30, 3:10 p.m.—[By Manila Cable.] It is reported that Aguinaldo has ordered the rebel generals in the province of Cavite to close in on and attempt to take the town of Imus, and it is added that troops are concentrating around the town from the lake country.

The rebels, it is further said, have an outpost of 700 men on the Dasmarinas road and an equal force in the town of Anabo. The Americans are intrenching the town, and they have no fear of the result of any attack by the rebels.

NEW GENERALS.

The President Can Appoint Five Brigadiers and One Higher.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 .- [Exclusive Dispatch.l One additional major-general and probably five additional brig-adier-generals will be appointed by President McKinley for the new vol-unteer army which is being organized. Two of the major-generals of volun-teers, Shafter and Otls, ore brigadiergenerals in the regular service, and it has not been decided whether the vacancies caused by their promotion shall be filled. Under the army reorganization law, the President is au-thorized to appoint one mojor general for every 12,000 men enlisted. When the volunteer regiments how being recruited have been organized the United States army, regular and volunteer, will consist of about 96,000 men. As there are now seven major-generals, corresponding to 84,000 en-listed men, the President will be en-abled to appoint one more major-gen-eral. It is not likely that the question of selection of this officer and of the new brigadier-generals will be taken up until after the President's return to Washington. The President has established the rule that applicants for appointments as general officers must win their proas general officers must win their promotion, and it is, therefore, practically certain that the officers who will be selected by the President must have distinguished themselves in the Spanish war or in the Philippines. Two of the brigadiers, Smith and Funston, will return home shortly from the Philippines to be mustered out. Hale has already returned for the burges. dent the right to appoint five new brigadiers,

ARRIVES AT OMAHA IN THE MIDST OF PANDEMONIUM.

Immense Crowd Meets the Regiment at the Depot-Whistles, Bells and Cannon All Go Off Together. After Addresses at the City Hall

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] OMAHA (Neb.,) Aug. 30.-Pandemo nium broke loose in Omaha this morning at 7 o'clock when the four trains earing the First Nebraska Regiment pulled into the Burlington depot. trains had been sidetracked at Have-lock during the night for the purpose of giving the men a chance to rest. The crowd which assembled at the depot was immense, but the police arrangements were excellent.

As the first train pulled up, the cheers of thousands of people were added to the din of whistles, bells, cannon, crackers and other noise-provokers The Omaha company was on the first section, and as the men tumbled off the train into the arms of waiting section, and as the men tumbled off the train into the arms of waiting mothers, sisters and sweethearts, it made a scene which no one who saw it will ever forget. The reception of the regiment has been a most enthusiastic one ever since it crossed the State line, but the one at Omaha was the climax.

At 9 o'clock the parade was formed. The buildings were elaborately decorated, and the sidewalks, windows and every place of vantage was one solid mass of cheering, yelling humanity.

Arriving at the City Hall the regiment was formally greeted by Mayor Moores, Gov. Poynter and other city and State officials. After the formal addresses, the men of the regiment took trolley cars and went to the exposition, where they spent the day.

He despaired of obtaining a commission, so he walked into a recruiting station on Third avenue. New York, Saturday morning, and offered his services. He asked to be assigned to the Twenty-ninth Infantry.

TO SALUTE DEWEY.

Two Immense Guns Leave Mare Island for Montpeller, Vt. [A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.ten-ton guns will leave Mare Island to-day for Vermont, where they will boom a salute from the hills surrounding Admiral Dewey's native town of Mont-pelier when the flagship is sighted off Sandy Hook Gov. E. C. Smith of Vermont applied to the authorities at Washington for two heavy guns for use in the salute to be fired in Dewey's honor. The depart-ment informed the Governor that the only guns which could be us d were at the Mare Island navy ya in Cali-fornia, and that no funds available for heir transportation were at hand.

"Give me an order, and I will stand the expense," said the Governor, and the big guns will be on hand to salute Dewey.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Twenty-two thousand head of cattle and 15,000 head of sheep were sold in one lot at the stock yards today by Idaho cattlemen. Westerners, ten in number, had de-cided to take advantage of the rise in prices and so brought on all the anipectations of good prices were more than realized. Creer, Mills & Co., took the whole consignment and the busines was quickly transacted.

The Idaho men were so pleased that they decided to take a little trip to London together. Before they over, they will see sights in Chicago. Yesterday they took a tally-ho trip around the boulevards and called on hief Kipley.

The members of the party are: C. P. Winchester, Shoshone; L. L. Gray, Bellevue, J. R. Ellison, Oakley; D. Cummings, Oakley; T. Larson, Oakley; C. R. Jones, Hailey; O. S. Worth-ington, Le Duc; C. E. Gridley, Bagerman; Joseph McMurry, Oakley.

Dr. E. L. Wemple, Jr., of San Francisco, has made a snug sum out of two score of sea lions which he capured in Santa Barbara Channel brought east. He headed an expedi-tion to the seal rocks in the channel and half a hundred excellent animals were obtained. They were packed in refrigerator cars, and started east over he Santa Fé line.

Wemple found buyers in every circus museum and zoo that he encountered en route, and when he reached Jersey City, last night, only had twenty-one left. He has orders for most of them, and expects to have the rest sold by the end of the week. He got $200 apiece or most of them, but as he has glutted the market it will hardly be profit-able for anyone to follow his example. The animals refused to eat for ten days after they were captured, but now they have all found their appetites and make away with large quantities of

decommendation Made That the Nev Code Be Established by Execu-tive Decree-Keep Military in the Background.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The insular commission, consisting of Gen. Kenney, Judge Curtis and Maj. Watkins, which has given six months' study to the conditions of Porto Rico, today made its report to Secretary Root. It recommends a form of civil govern-ment for the island, to take the place of the present military regime, and submits for adoption a code of laws. Those laws, it recommends, should be placed in operation by the Executive's decree, arguing that a Congressional enactment of general laws would change the status of the island toward the United States and make it part of the constitutional territory of the the constitutional territory of the United States. The code of laws and the civil gov ernment proposed do not give to Porto Ricans the elective franchises for any offices nor extend to them the privi lege of trial by jury except in United States courts in cases of felonies or civil cases involving an amount in ex cess of $500. It recommends that the military force remain in the island, but be kept in the background and touch the people only with a soft hand. English is to be made the official lan-guage of the island, but for the present guage of the island, but for the present all except the Federal courts are to be conducted in Spanish.

The code obliterates all Spanish law and royal decrees and all systems on procedure and substitutes the provisions of the code modified aften the laws of the States of the United States, and declarate the systems the company later systems. and declares the common law and prin-ciples of equity to be in future the law of the land where no specific direction is found in the code. In place of the Spanish system of courts, an American system is provided; a Supreme Court, a District Court and a Probate Court, with limited tices of the peace and police courts in the cities; also a Federal Court, to have exclusive jurisdiction of all Federal questions and concurrent jurisdic-tion in civil and criminal muters. There are to be five supreme judges, three of whom are to be American and two natives.

the others by the Governor-General and County Commissioners.

A public school system with provision for a superintendent and a Board of Public Instruction, and a complete system of public schools conducted in English by American teachers is provided, and also night schools for illiterate adults. The right to teach Spanish where demanded is given.

Full general corporation and railroad laws, with the right of eminent domain, are provided, thus opening the island to competition and ending the system of franchises to Tavored corporations. All taxes which bear heavily on the poor and all double taxes on non-residents are abrogated. A marriage law is provided like those in the States, with a plan for legalizing marriages and legitimatizing children, one-holf of whom on the island were born out of wedlock.

The commission recommends that the proposed code be put into effect at once by the President without waiting for Congress to legislate on the question, saying that the people of the island are in distress and are still being oppressed by the old Spanish laws and customs, leaving for Congress the question of such after legislation as may be deemed best.

The commission states that the Porto Ricans have lost their markets in Spain for their coffee, by reason of increosed duties, and the industry is now languishing for want of an immediate market for their productions; that many of the people are dependent upon this industry for employment and subsistence, and that there must be distress until the coffee-raisers and coffee-handlers can build up a trode with the United States, and it recommends that the government of the United States purchase the coffee for our army and nay in Porto Ricco.

coffee-handlers can bulld up a trode with the United States, and it recommends that the government of the United States purchase the coffee for our army and navy in Porto Rico. "Porto Rico," says the commission, "is now a part of the United States, and the protection of home industries end the defense and care of our own people is one of the recognized principles of our government."

As showing the immediate need of legal tribunals, the fact is cited that 114 prisoners at San Juan are held awaiting trial. In this list eleven prisoners have been confined from ten months to nearly five years without trial, and in some instances without charges of any kind against them. One man was confined for over four years awaiting trial, and a woman has been confined in this same joil for three years and twenty-four days without trial, and no changes of any kind were placed against her.

theaters. Boston arrived in the harbor today from Mare Island, where she went yesterday previous to the receipt of a telegram in this city ordering her to telegram in this city ordering her to remain here until after the reception, which was arranged for her men, was over. The department at Washington righted the mistake, and the Boston was ordered to return here.

This evening the jackies were landed, and, headed by a large band and a mounted escort of police, marched up Market street. The same brilliant electric display which greeted the Californians on their return lighted up Market street tonight, and the sailors marched under a veritable canopy of incandescence. Great crowds thronged both sides of the street, and the men were given a fine welcome.

the Accused-An Austrian Attache's Name Lugged In-Secret Session for Today

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] RENNES, Aug. 30 - By Atlantic Ca RENNES, Aug. 30—(By Atlantic Cable.) The air of Rennes, this evening is filled with rumors of conspiracles and predictions of coups de theater, but nothing precise can be ascertained. Gen. Mercier's attitude during the last few days has mystified his followers in the case. He is extremely clever, and the general feeling is that he is preparing something, the existence of the general feeling is that he is pre-paring something, the existence of which will be revealed in a few days. It is now accepted as beyond ques-tion that there is a serious division of opinion on the part of the generals. While the case was running smoothly against Capt. Dreyfus, they all pulled together, but since the tide of evidence began to turn in his favor, as was notably the case during the testimony notably the case during the testimony of Capt. Freystmeter and Col. Cordier of Capt. Freystmeter and Col. Cordier, which proved much more damaging to the general staff than the latter anticipated, certain dividing lines have become manifest between the various cliques. Gen. Roget, Maj. Lauth. Capt. Cuignet and M. Gribelin, the principal keeper of the archives of the War Office, form one colerie; Gen. Mercier and Gen. Gonse form another, and Gen. Billot and Gen. de Boisdeffre a third.

Gen. Billot and Gen. de Boisceire a third.

According to one report, the first two coteries intend to throw over Gen. de Boisdeffre, whom they feel to be faltering, and declare that he is responsible for all the errors and illegalities of the court-martial of 1894, thus making him the scapegoat. According to another report, Gen. Roget, who was not implicated in 1894, and who even fought against Dreyfus because he (Roget) inherited from his predecessors the responsibility for so doing and placed over-confidence in the accuracy in the matter furnished him by the general staff, will cut himself loose from Gens. Mercler, Gonse and De Boisdeffre.

from Gens. Mercler, Gonse and De Boisdeffre.

This is a plausible hypothesis, since Roget has assumed throughout the role of the defender of the army, thus making himself popular with the army and with a large section of the nation, and he probably would not lose by separating himself from the wrongdoers of 1894 and declaring that his opinion had been changed by the evidence given during the present trial.

Yet another story is that the generals are going to give way to the authorship of the bordereau, in view of the strong evidence, and will admit that Esterhazy wrote it, alleging, however, that Dreyfus furnished the information, not direct to Esterhazy, but to a third person, who acted as intermediary without Dreyfus knowing Esterhazy.

The this connection it was asserted.

In this connection it was asserted this afternoon that Mme. Rastien, who was housekeeper for Col. Schwarzkoppen, the German military attache in 1894, and who is understood to have acted as a French spy, has been seen in Ranhes, and will be summoned as a witness concerning Schwarzkoppen's espionage system. These rumors may be without foundation, but they are symptomatic of the feeling in Reness that something is going on under the surface, and that the complexion of the trial may be altered by some coup at any moment.

the trial may be altered by some coup at any moment.

In the matter of evidence, today was quite a Dreyfus day, only the deposition of the last witness, Gen. Deloye, being unfavorable. The testimony of M. Picot, an member of the Institute, is little likely, however, to serve the cause of the accused materially, if at all, because his introduction of Col. Schneider, the Austrian military attaché, as a champion of Dreyfus, was rather calculated to arouse resentment and adversely to influence the judges, especially as it was followed by Gen. Roget's tactful protest against Col. Schneider's uncomplimentary allusions to French officers.

Schneider's uncomplimentary allusions to French officers.

Tomorrow'sproceedings behind closed doors will deal with the question whether Capt. Dreyfus was in a position to divulge the information regarding the artillery which was promised in the bordereau. The session will be very important, and is bound to have a tremendous influence upon the judges, one way or the other, because they all are artillery officers, and will be able to appreciate such evidence better than the cryptographic intricacles that have to appreciate such evidence better than the cryptographic intricacies that have been laid before them by the handwrit-

STRONG POINTS FOR DREYFUS.

Mercler Makes a Shrewd Move to Escape Disgrace.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

RENNES, Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] At the opening of the third session of the fourth week of the second trial of Capt. Dreyfus, M. Paul Meyer, member of the Institute and director of the School of Ancient Manuscripts, was the first witness called. His deposition was in favor of Dreyfus.

After MM. Grenier and Giry and M. leot, a member of the institute, had estified in favor of Dreyfus, Gen. beloye testified against the prisoner in the artillery references in the borecast.

ing since 1894, puzzled the audience. That Esterhazy should have deemed it advisable to change his handwriting since the date of the bordereau, which appears at first sight to indicate that he wrote it, and that Gen. Mercler should support M. Grenier, aroused discussion as to its import. There are some people who see in Mercler's unsolicited testimony yesterday in support of the honorable nature of M. Mathieu Dreyfus's visit to Col. Sandherr, in 1894, in behalf of his brother, and the general's move today, an indication of some change of attitude, perhaps a prelude to candid avowal of his mistakes of 1894.

On the other hand, many persons think Gen. Mercler, fearing that Saturday's exposure will discredit him altogether with the judges, has conceived the idea of giving way on certain points, which, moreover, ore almost incontestable, and thus to some extent reinstate himself by an affectation of impartiality.

M. Picot related an interesting conversation which hehad with the Austro-Hungarian military attaché, Col. Schneider, menton of whose name evoked a prompt protest from Maj. Carriere, in the name of the sovernment and the state. Col. Schneider, necording to this witness, admitted that Esterhazy acted os a spy and wrote the bordereau.

Gen. Roget, with his musal shrewdness, seized upon M. Picot's statement that Col. Schneider expressed astonishment that French officers are attacked they have the right to defend themselves. These words will be published all over Frence, and will tend to make Gen. Roget more popular with the army.

Gen. Deloye repeated his testimony before the Court of Cassation relat-

Gen. Proget more popular with the army.

Gen. Deloye repeated his testimony before the Court of Cassation relating to the 129 short-cannon hydropnuematic brake and the Robin shell. Dreyfus, in reply, made a really clear statement, explaining that he saw the hydro-pneumatic brake once at Bourges, once at the School of War, and that he never saw it used, because while on the general staff he was never present at the firing practice.

Maj. Carriere then made application Maj. Carriere then made application to have the court sit behind closed doors tomorrow, explaining that he desired to submit to the court certain documents prepared by the gunnery bureau, containing information which it was desirable to discuss in private. The court, after deliberation, granted the application, and also acceded to the request of the defense that their witness, Maj. Hartmann of the artillery, be allowed to be present, as he would give important testimony showing Dreyfus could not have written the paragraph in the bordereau, concerning the artillery.

TESTIMONY IN DETAIL.

TESTIMONY IN DETAIL. Following are the proceedings in de

The first witness today, M. Paul The first witness today, M. Paul Meyer, member of the Institute, and director of the Schol of Ancient Manuscripts, described his researches in the Dreyfus case which led to his conviction, and testified that the bordereau tion, and testified that the bordereau was written by Esterhazy. The witness explained that in his evidence before the Assizes he was unable to be so positive about the writer, because he had only seen a facsimile of the bordereau, but at the Court of Cassation he saw the original.

"I convinced myself," said M. Meyer "I convinced myself," said M. Meyer,
"by a magnifying glass that the bordereau was written in a free hand and without hesitation, whereas it is precisely hesitation in the form of the strokes that reveals the method of 'tracing.' I can affirm that it is the writing, and in the very hand of Esterhazy. This is perfectly clear to me."
[Commotion.] Commotion.]
At the conclusion of his testimony

the witness gave a demonstration of the fallacy of the Bertillon system. Prof. Auguste Grenier of the School of Ancient Manuscripts gave similar evidence. He said that each fresh examination of the bordereau only served to further convince him that it was the work of Esterhazy. Amid deep attention the witness demonstrated how the conclusions of the experts who the conclusions of the experts who at-tributed the bordereau to Dreyfus were mutually destructive, and dwelt upon the defects of M. Bertillon's arupon the defects of M. Bertilion's arguments, pointing out the striking resemblance of the alleged doctored handwriting with Esterhazy's writing, who, he added, in everybody's opinion had relations with Col. Schwarzkoppen, the former Germany military attaché at Paris, and the dissimilarities between the writing of the bordereau and that of the prisoner. The members of the court-martial were evidently much interested, and asked Prof. Grenier a number of questions to which he reterhazy was the writer of the

Gen. Mercier requested permission to speak, and called attention to the fact that in his testimony before the Court that in his testimony before the Court of Cassation, Prof. Grenier said a change was apparent in Esterhasy's writing after 1894, and asked that the professor's former evidence be read. M. Labori, leading counsel for the de-fense, inquired if Gen. Mercier inter-writing after 1894, and asked that the professor's former evidence be read.

M. Labori, leading counsel for the defense, inquired if Gen. Mercier intervened with the object of verifying Prof. Grenier's evidence. Counsel added that it seemed to him that Gen. Mercier intervened less in the character of a witness than as a government commissary. He therefore would be grateful to the general if he would explain the bearing of his remarks.

Mercier replied that the special point he desired was to confirm the evidence of Prof. Grenier, which, he said, corroborated M. Bertillon's statement that Esterhazy, the man of straw, could change his handwriting, in order to replace Dreyfus.

In conclusion, Gen. Mercier said: "Having emphasized the point in regard to the change in Esterhazy's handwriting in 1897, perhaps before, I am satisfied." [Commotion.]

Frof. Giry, also of the School of Ancient Manuscripts, traversed about the same ground covered by Prof. Grenier. He said the bordereau only had a superficial likeness to Dreyfus's handwriting, and asserted that it was certainly the work of Esterhazy. The witness also said the bordereau was not written with the aid of key words.

M. Labori asked if the witness had noted a change in Esterhazy's caligraphy, and Prof. Giry replied that he had studied the writing, but did not think there had been any marked change. Counsel then asked whether Gen. Mercier had meant to intimate that Esterhazy's handwriting had become more or less like that of Dreyfus.

M. Labori retorted that in that case Mercier should not have repeated the evidence of Grenier before the Court of Cassation, as Grenier showed that Esterhazy's caligraphy had become more like that of the bordereau.

M. Labori retorted that in that case Mercier should not have repeated the evidence of Grenier before the Court of Cassation, as Grenier showed that Esterhazy's caligraphy had become less and less like the writing of the bordereau and of Dreyfus.

M. Bertillon at this juncture said he desired to speak, but the president o

On the resumption of the sitting, M. Georges Picot, a member of the institute, was called for the defense, M. Demange of counsel for the prisoner, explaining that Pico was summoned because, in May last, he had an interview with a foreign millitary attache, in the course of which mention was made of the document inserted in the dossier by Gen. Mercier.

Col. Jouaust cautioned the witness to be careful in his statements. Then, after promising to use care, Picot started with saying that he had an interview with the Austro-Hungarian military attaché.

Col. Jouaust stopped the witness, saying: "You cannot continue like this."

Col. Jouaust stopped the witness, saying: "You cannot continue like this."

Māj. Carriere, the government commissary, also exclaimed sharply: "I protest in the name of the government at the statement and the indiscretion committed by the witness."

M. Picot then recommenced his testimony, saying he had an interview with a certain military attaché, and that the conversation turned on the Dreyfus case. The attaché expressed surprise at the incorrect attitude of French officers, "in doubting the word of foreign officers," "My impression," said the witness, "was that he desired to assert firmly and unequivocally the innocence of Dreyfus." [Sensation.] "Regarding the bordereau," continued M. Picot, "the attaché said only three documents enumerated were referred, the fact being that the others were padding, meant to swell the dossier."

The witness noticed that the attaché amployed the expression "hydraulic brake" and never "pneumatic brake." In regard to Esterhazy, M. Picot said the attaché declared that he considered him a swinder. The attaché also asserted that Esterhazy had

Picot said the attaché declared that he considered him a swindler. The at-taché also asserted that Esterhazy had relations with Col. Schwarzkoppen, who dismissed him because Esterhazy always brought information devoid

"It was then," continued Picot, "that "It was then," continued Picot, "that Esterhazy tried to enter the War Office and almost succeeded. It was then that he wrote to Col. Schwarzkoppen what is since known, as the bordereau. In reply to the writer of the bordereau. Col. Schwarzkoppen wrote the telegram card known as the Petit Bleu, but on reflection he crumpled it up and threw it into the fireplace."

At this juncture, Gen. Roget asked leave to speak, and stationing himself beside the witness,—said he must strongly protest against M. Picot's evidence. regarding the military attache's supprise at the fact that French officers did not believe their foreign colleagues.
"What does the witness think" con-

"What does the witness think," con "What does the witness think," continued Gen. Roget, "of the foreign officer, who, having caused the publication in the Figaro of a denial of a statement of Gen. Mercier was afterward obliged to acknowledge the authorship of a document, the paternity of which he at first denied?"

M. Picot retorted that he had only repeated statements made to him, and had abstained from comments on them. He had, therefore, nothing to say in reply to Gen. Roget's questions.

say in reply to Gen. Roget's questions.

M. Demange, intervening, asked Gen. Roget if he did not think the Gen. Roget if he did not think the foreign officer's mistake was excusable, since the word "report" had been applied to a document not possessing the character of a report.

"It is not for me to accuse or excuse," replied the general. "I confine myself to pointing out to the court that the conversation repeated occurred in May; that is to say, at the time the investigation of the Court of Cassation was already known. For my part, I only intervened because French officers have the right to reply." [Excitement.]

The general then returned to his seat, and Gen. Deloye, director of artillery at the War Office, was called to the witness bar. He repeated his explanations given before the Court of Cassation as to the various peculiarities of the artillery, particularly with reference to the break of the "120" short gun. The witness said he considered that in 1894 it would have been impossible for an officer serving with his regiment to communicate impossible for an officer serving with his regiment to communicate any-thing with regard to the break of this gun. He added that, although the

When Dreyfus was asked if he had anything to say, he replied: "I do not intend to discuss the terms of the bordersau nor advance any theories about it. It must be known what is in the notes and what is their nature and their value before theories can be suggested. Mention has been made of the '120' short gun. I state briefly for the second time, all that I knew in 1889-90, at Bourges, of this gun was the principal of the pneumatic brake. "Gen. Mercier's deposition recalled the fact that he was inspector-general at Bourges in 1890. He must remember the lecture given in the presence of all the officers, both of the gunnery school and foundry, and all the departments of Bourges, and the officers of the garrison artillery. He must recollect the final lecture given on the subject of the pneumatic brake, of which he made the customary rough sketch. This is to be found in the St. Cyr lectures. All my knowledge of the gunnery school at Bourges and once in the school of war. I have not seen it in action. I have not seen the '120' short gun ired, I have not seen it in action. I have not seen the probationers attended.

In 1894 I studied the snell, and in a necessarily complete study reached the conclusion that the shell of 1894 pattern was a shell in which the bullets were kept in place by a smoke-generating substance, intended to produce dense clouds of smoke in bursting, in order to facilitate range-finding. These leve the conclusions I reached in 1891. are the conclusions I reached in 1891, and I chronicled them in a report made at the time."

and I chronicled them in a report made at the time."

When the prisoner was reseated Maj. Carriere announced that he had received a letter from Gen. Chamoine informing him that, by order of the Minister of War, the Third Artillery Department had prepared a list of the documents the defense requested, and that these documents could be submitted to the court by secret dossier. He then asked the court to sit in secret, or behind closed doors.

M. Demange asked that Majs. Hartmann and Ducros be allowed to attend when Gen. Deloye communicated the documents.

After the court had deliberated in private. Col. Jouanust announced that it would sit in secret tomorrow in order to consider the dossier, and that Majs. Hartmann and Ducros were authorized to attend.

The court adjourned at 11:15 o'clock.

DUBUQUE (Iowa,) Aug. 30 .- A crowd which taxed the capacity of the hall assembled at 11 o'clock tonight, to witness the twenty-round bouts be-tween Tommy White and Henry Lyons of Chicago for the 126-pound championship, and Jack Lewis and Charley Kenney for the lightweight championship of the West. White was a slight favorite over Lyons at odds of 10 to 8, while Lewis ruled favorite over Kenney at 10 to 4. George Siler was referee.

Kenney was given the decision on a foul in the seventh round, and was foul in the seventh round, and was awarded the purse.

The bout between White and Lyons was a spirited affair. White was the cleverer of the two, and jabbed Lyons's face with his left at will, but Lyons fought hard for the body, and in the second round knocked Tommy to his knees from a right on the body. Up to the seventeenth round there were even exchanges without any decided advantage. In this round Lyons forced the fighting and seemed to have the better of it. In the last round White fought hard, and was awarded the decision on points.

The third negro who was injured, has not been brought to this city, and his condition is not known.

The colored people of Rockford held a meeting last night in the African Methodist Episcopal Chirch, denouncing the killing of the two men and calling upon the authorities to take prompt and vigorous action. Committees were appointed to help search for the guilty parties.

One of the dead negroes is Moses Lee. He was picked up unconscious near the Illinois Central tracks west of the city Sunday, was taken to the City Hospital and never regained consciousness. There were cuts about his face and also a scalp wound.

The second negro is supposed to be George Woodward of Bolivar, Tenn. He was taken to St. Anthony's Hospital. He died from the effects of three cuts which appear to be from a blunt instrument. Near Woodward's body was found some cheap jewelry covered with blood. The grass was

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] YUMA (Ariz.,) Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This morning, at 2 o'clock, a fire broke out in the great mercan tile house of E. F. Sanguinetti, and in one hour six men lost their lives and at least $50,000 worth of goods went up in smoke.

The fire started in the second story. and is supposed to have been caused by rats playing with matches. The alarm was given by one of the town officers, and in a very few minutes four streams were being played on the building by the fire department, but the whole second story and roof was a furnace.

Sanguinetti and his clerks were try ing to get out his books and papers when the building showed signs of falling. He yelled: "Get out, every-body," and got out. Harry F. Neahr, 'Julian Preciada, James Tapia, Diek Wilson and two Mexican boys were not quick enough. The roof, second floor and main floor fell with a crash, and caught the six. Four bodies have been taken out, and a gang of men are searching for the others.

The goods and building are a total loss, which is partly covered by in-surance. As there was no wind, the adjoining building was saved. When the building collapsed, Wells-Fargo & Co.'s office was thought to be doomed, but by hard work it was saved.

daylight the fire was under con trol. There were many narrow escapes from falling walls, but no serious injuries, except the six killed. ANOTHER ACCOUNT. [ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

YUMA (Ariz.,) Aug. 30.—The most disastrous fire in the history of Yums roke out at 3 o'clock this morning the second story of E. F. San guinetti's mammoth mercantile estab lishment, resulting in the loss of six lives and the total destruction of the store, building and stock of goods.

When the alarm was given the volunteer fire department responded promptly and fought valiantly, but owing to lack of ladders and apparatus, the firemen were unable to cope with the flames. When it became apparent that the building was doomed men began carrying out goods from the lower floor. A number of them were working like bees when the sec-ond floor, which was used as a storeroom, came down upon them with a crash, killing five instantly, and more injuring many more.

Japan on the proposed alliance between the two countries.

The letter said the writer was in great difficulties, European powers were pressing for a portion of the empire. England, France, Germany, and, last of all, Italy, had presented demands, and the Empress did not know what to do to satisfy these "greedy dogs." England was the worst of all, for she had not disguised her longings for the Yang-tse Valley, and had even set on Italy to claim Fuhkien. But she had done more, she had attempted to frustrate her (the Empress's) relations with Russia, and openly protested against her advancing her railways in North China. Such indignities were insufferable, and she had therefore addressed herself to her good friend, the Emperor of Japan, for succor in her distress.

Promises of subsidies, of appointing Japanese to command the fleet and armies, of freedom of trade to Japanese ships and merchants accompanied this entitle and finally Japan was invited.

ment is the outcome of the studies for many years of Russell Thompson, a Cleveland newspaper man working upon the problem of giving profitable employment to the immense productive capacity, which, though obviously available, is not used.

His study has led him to declare, in what he pronounced the foundation of a new school of economics, that a business system in which establishments are disconnected is organically incapable of using more than a small part of all industrial power in reach, but that a comprehensive consolidation could use most of it, with a consequent wealth, increasing so rapidly as to change the whole condition of society. Thompson formed a corporation some months ago under the name of the Central Company, filing a charter at Trenton through a New Jersey registration and trust company. Several prominent business men in Cleveland have been quietly aiding and encouraging these preliminaries. Those who have financially assisted the promoters have extensive corporate and banking connections. Communications were today addressed to most of the consolidation directorates amouncing the project and explaining it.

A minister will be sent to Washington os soon as the new government is established, with authority to open negotiations for a tariff agreement.

"At present all the tobacco raised in Santo Domingo is sent to Germany, because it is excluded from the United Stotes by the high tariff. The principal exports from the island to this country are sugar and logwood, and it imports from here flour, lumber and machinery. The foreign trade of the island has been practically ruined by the heavy inflation of its paper currency, but the new government will naugurate a sound financial system, and after that there will be reason to expect a renewal of prosperity."

Gruellon spoke kindly of Gen. Figuereo, the present acting President of Santo Domingo, who assumed the relns of government after the assassination of Heureaux. He was not inclined to blame Figuereo for the alleged evils of the Heaureux administration. He intimated that the acting President himself was not bitterly opposed to the revolutionary party. Figuereo, he said, was a dark mulatto, and not a white man, as he had been reported in pictures in this country.

portant papers for the home office, has arrived here en route to London from the Transvaal.

Wilson says he has no doubt that there will be a war.

"I have been three years in the Transvaal, and know the leaders of the Boer government well. President Kfuger does not want war. He is now an old and infirm man. As such he has not the control of the Cabinet that he had once. The Cabinet is composed of young blood, who want independence, and who, I may say, will never give up until they have either attained it, or been wiped out of existence by the English forces. This is why I say there will be war.

"The story sent out that Gen. Joubert has found that the reserve shells in the Pretoria forts are ineffective, is probably true. A partial knowledge of this fact has been known for some time in British ministerial circles. There will be no trouble in replacing the ammunition, however.

"Gen. Joubert, I know personally, is opposed to war. He will lead the Boer forces when war comes. He is a fighter, a man of courage, and will simply be a sacrifice to his ambition.

"When the blow is struck, it will be a fatal one in the Transvaal. The British have for months been massing troops, and are practically ready at this time, if necessity demanded immediate action."

Wilson takes issue with the suggestion that Hon. Joseph Chamberlain is in any way responsible for the trouble.

The vote of 389 to 341, in defeating the minority report on credentials, was the hardest fight the McLean men had during the day, as they were then without the fifty-six contested votes from Cuyahoga county, and on that vote they could not have made a nomination. Even without the Cuyahoga vote, on the adoption of the majority report on credentials they were only seven short of enough to nominate.

Judge Mooney made such a good impression that all wanted him for chairman, and the impression also continued for Secretary Thomas J. Cogan, the friend of McLean, and shut off the anti-McLean man who had been named in the report for sergeant-at-arms. The

When the convention reassembled, there were efforts to nominate Kilbourne, notwithstanding his repeated declinations, and his friends withdrew his name as fast as the McLean men presented it.

On reassembling, every possible effort was made to nominate Kilbourne for Lieutenant-Governor, but after a dozen close friends had withdrawn his name and declared that Col. Kilbourne would decline, this effort was abandoned. During this part of the performance the committee appeared, escorting the nominee for Governor and other candidates for that place.

Mr. McLean was given a rousing ovation. He, thanked the convention for the honor, and said he would make as hard a fight for that as possible. Col. Kilbourne was most enthusiastically received, and addressed the convention at length, thanking his friends for their loyal support, and asking them to bow to the will of the majority. He culogized the platform, and held that principles were more important than personal preferences.

WORLD'S CLEARINGHOUSE. Congressman McCleary Objects to Paying Tribute to the English.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.] SEATTLE, Aug. 30.-Congressman McCleary of Minnesota, a member of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, who is visiting here, said today:

"There will be several important questions to come up at the next session of Congress. We will have the problem of the Philippines with us, and a recognition of the fact that we are now a world power, and will hereafter be consulted within matters concerning the nations. Also that we are a great nation, reaching out after commerce. This latter fact implies two or three things, We must have the best machinery of commerce. We must have a sufficient supply of American ships to carry all American goods, and we must have such revision of our banking system as will give us the proper instruments to carry on this world-wide commerce.

"The most important thing is to be able to buy a draft in New York, San Francisco or Seattle that would be payable in Hongkong without our having to pay tribute to the financial exchanges of London. We have more capital in this country at the present day than Great Britain ever had, yet we, as a part of the whole, must pay tribute to her.

"I want to see New York or some other American city the clearinghouse we, as a part of the whole, must pay tribute to her.

"I want to see New York or some other American city the clearinghouse of the world, as it has a right to be. One great fault is in our banking laws, which do not permit of the establishment of any branch of a national bank. This law should be repealed. It is one essential factor in our development that our banking-houses have branches in all countries of the world. Then we can carry on commerce with the world as we should."

THAT EXTRA SESSION.

Senator Smith Calls on the Anti Burns Forces to Unite.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator S. C. Smith, editor of the Bakersfield Echo, who placed U. S. Grant in nomination at the last session of the Legislature, is out with an article calling upon the opposition to Burns to promptly organize again to prevent the election of the latter, and not only that, but to select a successor to ex-Senator White as well. His editorial in part is as

"There seems to be but little doub now that there is to be an extra ses sion of the Legislature this fall. The otensible purpose will be some plece of legislation more or less important; but the real purpose will be the elec-tion of a United States Senator. We ventue the opinion that if the session shall result in the election of a satisfactory man to that high office, the people of the State will, in a large measure, overlook the expense of the extra gathering of the legislators, for California is occupying an important position in national affairs, just now, and her full voice should be heard.

"Assuming, then, that there is to be an extra meeting, a very important duty devolves upon the leaders of the Republican party, both in and out of the Legislature. This party is in pow-er, and will be charged with the re-sult of the session. This makes it necessary that the leading men of the party look the situation squarely in the face, and without delay begin to lay plans which will avoid any possible mistake. . "There is no use in disguising the fact that the line of cleavage in the regular session, so far as the selection of a Senator was concerned, was Burns and anti-Burns. The same was then and anti-Burns. The same was then and is yet true concerning the people of the State, and that will be the divisional line in the extra session. There was then and there is now strong opposition to the selection of Col. Burns for that office. But while Burns has his elements of weakness, he is still the extraorest may in the race at this the strongest man in the race at this date, because he has his forces organ ized and in battle array.

"The opposition, numerically twice as strong as his forces, is entirely without leadership and organization, and this is a point to which we desire to call the attention of the men of the party who are in a position to make the first move in the matter of an or-ganization. It will not do to merely say: Burns must not be elected. An extra session with no Senator elected would be but little less disastrous than one resulting in the election of an unpopular man.

YOKOHAMA DISASTER.

DENSELY-POPULATED PORTION OF

Sixteen Lives Lost-Many Millions of Property Loss With No Insurance-Supposed New Relations Between Japan, China and Rus-

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

YOKOHAHA, Aug. 18, wired from Victoria, Aug 30.—Yokohama saw, on the night of August 12, the greatest fire in her history. A densely-popu-lated square mile of the native town was burned with a loss of sixteen liver and from $5,000,000 to $6,000,00 property. Globe-trotters will regret to hear that the famous Theater street is destroyed from end to end.

As a system of fire insurance has not yet gained much hold in Japan on account of the inflammable nature of the houses, the disaster falls heavily upon the homeless people. Some of them, strongly imbued with western notions of lynch law, formed a mob and proceeded to attack the owner of the house in which the fire originated, and the man has died of his wounds.

Apart from the demonstrations, the calamity has been taken with the utmost cheerfulness. Large relief subscriptions, amounting in two days to over 60,000 yen, have flowed in, rebuilding was actively progressing the day following the fire, and in a week or two little or no trace of the disaster will be seen.

or two little or no trace of the disaster will be seen.

There is still much talk over the supposed new relations between Japan, China and Russia. The most probable outcome, it is thought, will be an excess of cordiality between the first two nations similar to that which now exists between the Anglo-Saxon people. There has been nothing of late to indicate that treaty revision has wrought the slightest change in the relations of foreigners to the Japanese government and people. Everything flows on as smoothly and harmoniously as under the old regime.

BIG JAPANESE CONFLAGRATIONS. sand Houses Burned.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] VANCOUVER (B. C.,) Aug. 30.—The steamer Empress of China arrived this morning from Hongkong and Yokoama. She reports that Japan has suffered severely from three or four large fires. The most extensive fire large fires. The most extensive fire for many years in Yokohama occurred in the native town August 12. About twenty streets were destroyed, including the business part of the town. The number of houses destroyed is reported to be about 10,000, including four theaters, elementary school, post and telegraph offices and a police station. A number of Chinese and other people were burned to death, while many others swam across the canal and had narrow escapes. The losses of insurance companies are estimated at some $400,000, while the actual loss is several millions.

insurance companies are estimated at some $400,000, while the actual loss is several millions.

The city of Toyama was destroyed by fire the same day. Six thousand houses were burned down. The distress in Yokohama and Toyama is very great. Subscriptions were raised, their majestles, the Emperor and Empress, presented $5500 toward the relief fund at Toyama and $3500 for the same purpose at Yokohama.

It is stated that the number of sufferers from Toyama who are receiving relief is over 1500. The losses of the municipal authorities of the city are estimated at $140,000, and the losses of the inhabitants burned out are estimated at $140,000, ond for houses only.

At Hakodate, August 11, many houses were destroyed by fire. Five persons were burned to death.

August 15, fire broke out at Shirori, Yokohuk, and about fifty houses were destroyed.

A disastrous fire is reported from Formosa, on the 5th inst. Fire broke out at Hokukata during a heavy gale, blowing the fiames in all directions with startling rapidity and some 200 houses were burned.

At Kobe, August 15, considerable damage was caused by a typhoon. The steamer Argyll dragged her moonings and was carried broadside on the sand. She was apparently undamaged. There will be delay in getting her off and dispatching her to her destination, New York.

ALLIANCE OF REPUBLICS. Scheme for an International League for Mutual Protection.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.] CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 30.-An eminent lawyer belonging to the con-cervative party publishes in the cler-servative party publishes in the clerical organ El Tiempo, an elacorate plan for an alliance of all Latin-American republics in league for mutual protection. According to this plan, the league is to be formed for a period of twenty-five years, and to commence its existence with the first year of the coming century. There shall be a general assembly of delegates from all nations in the league.

The supreme assembly shall have control of the combined fleets of the contracting powers, and shall also have eminent control over an interoceanic canal, which the new confederation shall construct in Central America. The nations in the league shall submit to compulsory arbitration all international questions.

to compulsory arbitration all international questions.

In its issue tonight El Mundo, a semiofficial paper, tears the programme to pleces in a brilliant analysis, saying that the whole plan is a scheme to bring the progressive Latin-American countries, such as Mexico, Brazil, Chile, and Argentine under the control of an assembly in which the little republics dominated by the clergy will have a majority. El Mundo auos:
"The first outcome of such a league
would be war with the United States, which would regord any attempt to build an interoceanic canal as a determination of hostilities against herself."

El Mundo ridicules the scheme impracticable and opposed to the wishes of the liberal party in the Latin-American countries.

having a map drawn of the forest reserve, showing the tracts allotted to each flockowner.

The association is engaged in missionary work, with the object of demonstrating that the grazing of sheep, when properly regulated, is in no wise detrimental to the preservation of the forests, and, in futherance of this aim, has passed the following resolutions:

"Whereas, the Department of the Interior and its officials in charge of the management and regulation relative to grazing of the forest reserves of Arizona have, in spite of the popular prejudice against sheep-grazing, manifested at all times a spirit of fairness and a disposition to investigate the facts and conditions of each locality, and to favor the bona fide settler when ever it can be done without detriment to the forest growth; and, knowing as we do that thorough investigation and just report will show that sheep-grazing under proper rules and restrictions can be made the strongest safe-guard for the forest reserve of Arizona.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Arizona Wool Growers' Association; "That we express our appreciation of the fairness of the regulations of the department, and its treatment of the sheep interests of Arizona thus far, and our confidence in the continuation of the same spirit, which is more appreciated by us because of the opposition of many good people who have been misled into the honest error of believing that sheep on our forest reserves injure the forest growth and interfere with the water supply of the southern portion of the Territory.

"That is not the only duty, but to the personal interest of each individual wool grower, who grazes at any season upon any of the forest reserves of Arizona, to see that the rules and regulations of the department relative to such grazing, and all regulations for the protection of the forest particularly those relative to fires, are strictly and faithfuly carried out.

MOTIVELESS MURDER.

At Springerville, a little Mormon-Mexican town in southern Apache county, was committed Wednesday morning one of the most incomprehensible, yet most brutal of crimes. Bertha Wahl, 14 years old, was shot and killed by Eugenio Matas, a Mexican in the employ of the girl's father. Matas had observed, a few minutes before, that he "felt bad and wanted to do something bad." Thereupon he picked up a Winchester rifle and walked toward the Wahl house. On the way, as though in fun, he pointed the rifle at a little girl in a window. Entering the house he found Bertha prenaring to go out, in the act of putting on her hat before a mirror. With her was a girl friend. As Bertha turned toward the door, Matas, without a word, fired at her. The bullet penetrated just above the heart and death was almost instantaneous. Matas fied, but was overtaken by a posse in a hiding place among rocks, eight miles to the southward. When cornered he surrendered, merely saying that the shooting was an accident. The verdict of the Coroner's Jury was "willful murder," and the prisoner was remanded ito the County Jail at St. Johns. The population of the district is deeply stirred by the murder. The St. Johns paper, in pica type, announces the belief of its editor that Matas "ough to be shoved out of existence in a manner so speedy and effectual that he would not be allowed to breathe the free air of the universe, to 7 min it with his exercrable breath." Yet, notwithstanding all this, Matas at last accounts was still enjoying the hospitality of the Sheriff of the county.

John Brown of Chloride Kills His Third Victim.

KINGMAN (Ariz.,) Aug. 26.—[Regular Correspondence.] John Brown of Chloride is an inmate of the Mohave County Jali in Kingman, held without ball for the willful murder of Oscar Simmons, a Chloride saloon-keeper. The two men had quarreled and Brown had yowed in public to have the other's blood. Early Sunday morning Brown entered Simmons's place of business and challenged him to combat, using such language that Simmons got the "drop" on him and drove him from the saloon. salon. A little later Simmons, revolver in hand, walked into the street to see where Brown had gone. Brown was waiting for him. He had secured a Winchester rifle and had hidden himself behavior as the state of the sale had a sale h a Winchester rifle and had hidden himself behind an ice chest. As Simmons was gazing down the street away from Brown's direction, the latter took deliberate aim, at a distance of seventy-five yards, and shot his victim through the side and heart. Brown was arrested on the spot. He would have been lynched had not the crime been so plainly a helnous murder that it was thought impossible that justice should stray from giving him his deserts. plainly a helnous murder that it was thought impossible that justice should stray from giving him his deserts. Simmons is the third man killed by Brown. His second victim was only a year ago in White Hills camp, north of Chloride. Then he furnished evidence that the deed was done in self-defense, and he was let go. He had previously been sent to the Territorial prison under a seven years' sentence for manslaughter in Yavapai county. There can now be little doubt concerning the entire success of the entertainment that celebrated the arrival of the iron horse in Chloride. A Chloride correspondent of a local journal thus tells of the wind-up of the festivities: "After a rest and a few beers, the music was heard to issue from the City Hall, and the Miners' Union grand bail was in progress. The attorneys for defendant are Bledsoe & Bledsoe, also of San Bernardino. In preesning the case the prosecution confined the testimony as closely as possible to the bare fact of Hawley's death having been caused by a shot fired by Walker. All the witnesses for the prosecution were examined today, and there was little opportunity for cross-examinaton. The prosecution was brief and the early resting of the case took the defonse by surprise. The attorneys for Walker filed an affavit to the effect that the hasty conclusion of the testimony for the prosecution had left the defense unprepared in some particulars and an adjournment was asked and granted until 1:30 a.m. Thursday. Rending Power of Lightning.

Prof. Trowbridge shows that when static electric discharges of a certain strength are passed through glass tubes six feet long and one inch in diameter, filled with ordinary water; the tubes burst in, many places. The explanation of this phenomenon is that a discharge passes between the inner surface of the glass and the water, and vaporizes the water. The steam or expanded air is the explosive agent. This experiment may be regarded as explaining the action of lightning in rending trees. The explosion is no independent attribute of the lightning flash, it is simply the effect of the sudden expansion of air or steam in the cavities and pores of the wood. The explosion is due primarily to the heat developed by the spark.

Island Can Easily Sustain Twentyfour Million People if Densely Settled Like New England or Belgium—The Yankee Agent Abroad in the Land.

PECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES. 1 TRINIDAD DE CUBA, July 23.-Ac cording to official figures, the Cuban trade with the United States in its best years, 1892-93, amounted to $102,364,204—four times as much as ever with China or Japan, thirteen times as much as with Russia, and even considerably more than the grand total of our av-erage trade with Austria-Hungary, Russia, Sweden and Norway, Denmark, erage trade with Austria-Hungary, Russia, Sweden and Norway, Denmark, Turkey, Greece, Italy and Switzerland and Portugal combined. If this was the case when Cuba remained in the grasp of the penureous and poverty-stricken Spain, what will it be when her resources have had a few years of fostering under the friendly wing of the richest republic?

Almost as large as England, and about three times as big as Belgium, if the island ever becomes as densely populated as either of those European countries, it will easily sustain twenty-four million inhabitants. Among Cubo's most urgent needs of today are railroads and all that the building of them implies; and in this feature alone American capital and labor may find untold bonanzas. The need of American machinery is also very great, not only to replace the many million dollars' worth destroyed in the sugar mills, but that now needed in the increasing coffee and tobacco industries, in converting cocao beans into chocolate, palm nuts into soap and oil, fibers into cordage, paper and textile fabrics; in short, in the manufacture of all manner of articles in every-day use, which have never been, but should be, made in Cuba.

A great deal of mining machinery has already been shipped to the eastern end of the island, and more is on the iries; in short, in the manufacture of all manner of articles in every-day use manner of articles in every-day use made in Cuba.

A great deal of mining machinery has already been shipped to the eastern end of the island, and more is on the way. The Spanish-American iron Combon of Cuba, and is largely made up or capitalists who have been active in the Lake Superior iron-ore business—the Colbys, Elys, Rockefellers—are the principal sock owners. A number of equired control of 17,000 acres of valuable iron-ore deposits, in the southeast ern portion of Cuba, between Santiago and Guantamemo. Many thousands of property, opening the mines and establishing facilities for handling the output. As there was no harbor convenient to the mines, in order to ship or economically. It was necessary to congange the company adopted to the company adopted the policy of waiting for advantageous market conditions. Finally reduction of the duron, and an increased demand for Bessemer fron-ore in Eastern Pennsylvania, started the shipments. The Spanish-American Iron Company made the company adopted the policy of waiting for advantageous market conditions. Finally reduction of the duron, and an increased demand for Bessemer fron-ore in Eastern Pennsylvania, started the shipments. The Spanish-American Iron Company made the Company to transport 30,000 tons of ore to points north of Cape Hatteras; and for a time all went merry as a marriage bell. Quantities of the ore were dispelled the season of the top of the proper of the development of the duron, and an increased demand for Bessemer fron-ore in Eastern Pennsylvania, started the shipments. The Spanish-American Iron Company made the company adopted the policy of waiting for advantageous market conditions. Finally reduction of the duron of the dur were composed of metal derived from the same source.

The fact is that Cuba's mineral wealth was never in gold and silver, as the early Spaniards supposed. They found the Indians wearing ornaments of beaten gold—probably obtained in trade with Mexico and Central America: and in their greed to discover where the precious metal was hid, the conquerors exterminated the aboriginal population. The little silver 'hat exists is hardly worth mentioning. In this, Santa Clara province, there are old silver mines, long unworked, which have produced quantities of ore vield. The per cent pure silver. The mines are by no means exhausted, but political disturbances and the poverty of the people have prevented their further development. Of coal there is positively none in Cuba, Munchausen tales to the contrary notwithstanding. In the Sierra Maestra range, stretching along the southern coast between Santiago and Manzanillo, are extremely valuable deposits of manganese, which is indispensable in the manufacture of steel. It is not generally known that Cuba has also asphalt deposits, rivaling those of Trinidad, and equally good for street paving and gun making. Beyond doubt, Cuba's greatest mineral riches are in fine copper. There are inexhaustible deposits of this metal, not only in the far-famed Sierra del Cobre ("Copper Mountains") of the eastern end, but in other parts of the island. The comparatively small quantity that as yet has been taken out yielded an average of 60 per cent. pure metal. Long before Columbus sighted these shores the Indians were mining copper in the Cobre hills. Archaeologists find strong proof that it was carried across to Florida many centuries ago and used by the Indians of that peninsula, trinkets of pure copper having been found in their burial grounds.

In the line of furniture, tableware, sewing machines, farming implements and a hundred other manufactured articles which are found in the humblest homes of that United States, there is a marked soarcity in Cuba, even among the richest. Already the g

The other day I met a couple of sanguine Missourians, who are expecting to get rich in short order on the cablinet woods of the Island. Here is certainly a very wide field, which has never before been worked. Even the names of the valuable woods are mostly unknown to Americans, the old Spanish nomenclature, which has no regard for correct botanical classificabeing still used in Cuba. Some day our commercial interests will better define them, but so far these choicest products of the tropical wilderness are known to few but the "Mimbi"—the Cuban woodmen who hew a ruthless way with machetes and call the monarchs of the forest by names that describe their characteristics. For example, there is the quiebra-hacha, "machete-breaker," so-called because it is stronger than any implement of iron or steel, and will turn the edge of the best American ax that can be brought against it. It averages fifty feet in height, but is rarely more than one foot thick—tall and straight as an Amazon arrow, which it greatly resembles; and its dark, mottled grain takes on a beautiful polish. Then there is the "quebracho-colorado," a bright red wood which seems to be absolutely indestructible. Timbers made of this red wood when the first Spaniards discovered the New World, have never rotted in air, earth or water, but are as firm and strong today, after more than four centuries of usage, as when taken from their forest. The tree grows to great height and large in diameter at the base, but its foliage is not nearly so beautiful as that of many inferior trees. One sees a good deal of the timber in the old churches of Cuba and in the uncovered rafters of the finest houses; and no plaster, kalsomine or paper could be half as handsome as the great red beams overhead.

The "Jucaro" resembles the redwood, and so does the "Acana"—both being good, hord, redwood, but like third cousins or poor relations in the aristocratic Quebracho-Colorado family.

There is also the jigui, yaya, dagame, macagua, and no end of other strange

Not so the land crabs, that at some as easons of the year travel in loath-some procession across the island. Woe to the helpless man who comes in their way, for they will nibble him to ceath, and pick his bones clean enough for the articulator. Iguanas, caymen and crocodiles are common, a to long of their own on the Isle of Pines, so fierce and numerous toat human beings give them a wide berth. Of course there are sandfiles and mosquitoes golore; and big spiders, whose tite causes fever, and scorpions, whose titing is not fatal. More to be dreaded than these is the vivajagua, or belligerent ant, and the "jigger." which burrows under somebody's toe nail to raise his interesting family,

Dollars

For You

Young Man Young Woman

They represent value-measure value. young man's worth is not—should not be —measured in dollars, and yet, in a practical sort of way this is really the case. The value the dollars he can earn for the employer. When he grows to be a man, his standing in the he can command. We say this should not be so -perhaps-but it is, so what is the young man oing to do about it? The sensible thing to do is to prepare himself in the best possible way to mate dollars—plenty of them—and to make them honestly. We do not mean to get a kit of tools and make counterfeit dollars; we mean to qualify himself to EARN dollars. Dollars are a good thing when honestly acquired and wisely used. A man's possessions when honestly acquired—when earned—are a part of himself. If he misuses his earnings he misuses himself, and that means degeneration, degradation. Now to the point. We know of no better way to prepare to earn dollars than to take a course of training at the Los Angeles Business College, 212 West Third Street. This school has stood the test of years and of business requirements. It's graduates may be found in all kinds of business. The business men come the school for office and clerical help. diploma from this school means something means thoroughness in those things which to make up a dollar-earning education. have no time for the ornamental or the elabor ate or the ponderous in education. We combine the theoretical with the practical in such a way that the student becomes a power-a force center-when he leaves us. He can DO things, and that is the test these days. "What can you do?" says the prospective employer. And if the young man goes into business for himself the BUSINESS says to him "Young man, what can you do?" And so it runs all along the line, until the everlasting hills echo,

The danger to digestion and health that menaces those who eat lard-shortened or lard-fried food is happily not found in Cottolene. Made of the best beef suet and the highest grade cotton-seed oil, Cottolene is a pure, clean and healthful vegetable food product, containing neither the greasiness or odor of lard, nor its indigestible qualities, and is strongly endorsed by cooking experts and physicians.

The genuine Cottolene is sold everywhere in one to ten pound yellow tins, with our trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant screath—on every tin. Not guaranteed if sold in any other way.

William Snoddy, Charged With Assault, Dismissed—An Ordinance Prohibiting Use of Sewage for Irrigating Vegetables,

In the distribution of the city's funds for the current fiscal year the Finance Committee and other members of the City Council have been confronted by several serious questions. The depart-men allowances are not the only feaures of the annual financial budget to be provided for, but there are nu merous other items of expense which must be considered, and the action taken upon them has a direct bearing upon what the departments are to re-ceive. The committee and other mem-bers will devote today to the work of arranging the finances and will prob-ably be ready to report by this after-

MANY ITEMS OF EXPENSE MUST BE PROVIDED FOR.

w Increases in Salaries-Nearly All Department Estimates Re duced-Fire Department Practice Drills-Police Signal System Almost Complete.

Although the Finance Committee and several other members of the City Council gave much time yesterday to the work of apportioning the estin revenue of the city for the current fis-cal year, the budget was not completed, and a portion of this morning will be devoted to it. The work of this character this year has been particucharacter this year has been particularly difficult for a number of reasons.

The last fiscal year left a shortage of nearly $40,000, which had to be made up. There are a number of important matters which require attention, and more money than is in sight to be spared to them without cutting other items. The claims of the outling districts to conclaims of the outlying districts to cer-money than is in sight to be spared to them without cutting other items. The claims of the outlying districts to certain attention at the hands of the city authorities had to be considered, and several other questions have entered into the division of the funds.

It has been recognized from the start that there was a greater necessity for economy this year than last, notwithstanding the increased revenue, and in their work the members of the Council have been trying to so equalize the expenses that there will be no false economy. Nearly all the departments demanded more money than was allowed them last year, but the City Auditor in his estimate of their needs reduced most of these additions to almost the amount of last year's allowance. Since the Auditor's report was filed the Finance Committee has been continuing the pruning process with a very sharp knife, and it is certain that not more than one or two of the departments will receive all that they asked for.

Increases in salaries will be few and far between. The members of the Council yesterday agreed upon three salary increases, and those will be about all that will be granted. One of them is in the City Engineer's department and the other two in the City Attorney's department. All of them are for the purpose of obviating the necessity for the appointment of an additional deputy in each of these departments. That the estimate of the fire department would be reduced has been known for some months. The reason for it is that the estimate was made on the basis of a fully-paid department for the entire year, when in fact a fully-paid department will he partment can be used in a number of ways, but just what to do with it the members have not decided.

It is practically settled that the library department will be allowed $26,000, a slight increase over the allowance of last year. The members admit that this department deserves a greater amount, but under the circumstances that is all that the committee feels that it can allow. It is settled that the police depar

There are Doctors and ----.

To any person who has suffered at the hands of incompetent physicians, there is a whole sermon expressed in the above dash. We know that such things are happening every day. But the entire effort of the Homo Alo Medical Institute. Ms South Spring street, is to make it possible for those of small or moderate means to enjoy the same advantages as are open to those who are able to employ skilled specialists at high rates. Their entire charge for complete and careful examination, advice and medicine, is only 80 cents. There is absolutely no other charge, and there is no better, more conscionations as vice than these physicians are past 10 sive 500.

school improvement bonds, and that ordinance has been completed. Because of the suit to test the legality of the annexation of University, it is considered probable that the Council will not adopt this ordinance until the annexation question has been settled. Accepted a Street.

missioners that they may have this increase. Some of the other items in the estimate for this department are to be reduced, but none of them are as important as that involving the desired increase in the force. It is probable that the proposition to quarter the chain gang in Elysian Park and have it work there all the time instead of on the streets will be abandoned, although some of the members have figured it out that such a disposition of this costly necessity would be a measure of economy. The proposition for a public morgue has been abandoned until another year.

There is to be a slight increase in the allowances made for charity, two additional charitable institutions being placed on the list of those, which receive monthly allowances from the city. An important item which the committee is trying to provide for is that of painting the city bridges. That they need paint is well known, and it is argued that unless the work is done this year the deterioration of the structure will be so great during the year because of the absence of paint that there will be no economy in not spending the money for that purpose. The sprinkling of streets not included in the contract is another item which must be provided for.

If the suit filed Wedfresday to test Superintendent of Streets Drain yes-terday officially inspected the work done in improving Twenty-fourth street between Central and Griffith avenues. No protests against the ac-ceptance of he work were made by interested property-owners and the street was accepted. TAT THE COURTHOUSE.1

McDonald, who left an estate valued at $160,000. The contest is being waged by five nephews in Barry, Ontario, Canada, who claim that a will exscuted June 29, 1878, leaving his property to his wife, and children was yesterday the Board of Fire Commis-sioners ordered that the number of practice hitch-ups required daily of nd that he made out another will in 1898, giving his interests over to Mrs. McDonald, the Winsolws and Kellar. children in the mean time had. holographic, but the nephews aver that when he executed it, McDonald was of unsound mind, and was under duress and fear of several of the devisees named therein.

All these allegations are vigorously denied in the answer filed yesterday. McDonald is said to have been in strong mind, and it is claimed that he was absolutely free of any influence due to the devisees or any others. If it is found that the will of 1878 was not revoked, then it is asked that it be admitted to probate, as well as the one of later date. The hearing in the contested matter is set for a date in October.

tofore this daily drill has taken place at noon, but under the new order all of the teams will be hooked up at 8 a.m., noon and 5 p.m. In advocating the change Chief Moore stated that it was in the interests of the city and in order to secure prompt service from the diremen themselves.

The Chief reported that during the past week the department had responded to only four alarms of fire, the total loss being less than $400. The fire at which the greatest loss occurred was at Fourth and Figueroa streets, where a small cottage was destroyed.

Whenever there is a fire in the central part of the city and lines of hose are stretched across the streets the firemen experience much trouble in keeping drivers from driving over the hose, in spite of the fact that there is an ordinance against it. During his recent visit to San Francisco Chief Moore observed the use of what are known as "bumpers." and yesterday he recommended that the department here be supplied with them. He was careful to explain that the bumpers he suggested were not the kind usually contained in a glass, but are stout poles, ten feet long and of about the same diameter as the fire hose. These poles are provided with clutches with which they are fastened to the hose, one on each side. The heaviest vehicles may be driven over them without injuring the hose. The board adopted a requisition for the purchase of several sets of the appliances. Vegetables Must not Be Irrigated b Dist.-Atty. SNODDY DISCHARGED.

The Testimony at the Preliminar

Examination Too Conflicting. The charge of assault with leadly weapon, preferred by Geo Laing, a contractor, against William Snoddy of El Monte, was ordered dismissed by Justice James yesterday morning. Snoddy's preliminary ex-amination was held in the Township Court on Monday. Laing at that time testified that he had gone over to Snoddy's pumping plant north of El Snoady's pumping plant north of Ei Monte, and just as he entered a shed he was struck over the back of the head with a piece of pipe. Snoady ad-mitted striking Laing, but averred that he was compelled to do so, on account of a hostile demonstration by Laing in reaching toward his right hip pocket. As soon as Snoady learned that a warrant was out for his arhip pocket. As soon as Snoddy learned that a warrant was out for his arrest, he hastened into the city and delivered himself over to the officers. He was at once released on his own recognizance, having borne a good reputation in El Monte, where he has lived for almost thirty years. The charge was dismissed on account of extremely conflicting testimony.

The present system will accommodate at least 200 boxes. Fifty are to be installed now. The keys will be turned over to the Board of Police Commissioners as the head of the police department. There are two kinds of keys, one for use by citizens and the other by patrolmen. The citizens' key can only be used to summon a patrol wagon, but the policemen's key will open the outer door of the boxes so that reports may be made to the central station.

AN INTELLIGENT OPINION

DR. LYTE OF THE PENSYLVANIA NORMAL ON THE N.E.A.

andid Opinions of Los Angeles in Particular and Southern Cali-fornia in General-How the Climate Appeared to a Scholarly Man Who Was Here on Business. [Interview in Lancaster, Pa., New Era.] Dr. E. O. Lyte, of the State Normal School at Millersville, was at his desk when our reporter called to talk with him about his recent trip to California. In answer to a question, he began by saying that the railroad accommodations were as nearly perfect as they could be on so long a trip. "I was not delayed at any time," said he, "except the first day. A few miles east of Pittsburg a serious wreck of the fast mall east on the Pennsylvania Railroad obstructed the track and the passengers were compelled to walk half a mile or more around the wreck, and many of them missed their con-nections at Pittsburg. This was the only detention I had during the entire trip of 8000 miles. The railroad tracks west are remarkably well ballasted, as a rule, and run more smoothly than many of our eastern roads." "Did you get enough to eat on your

many of our eastern roads."

"Did you get enough to eat on your journey?"

"Well," said Dr. Lyte, "I had my wife with me, and two grown boys; and the boys wanted a great deal to eat. I went to Los Angeles on the Santa Fé Rallroad, one of the best roads I have ever ridden on. As a rule, passenger trains stop at eating houses along this road. These eating houses along this road. These eating houses are kept by Fred Harvey, and are famous the world over. You have all the substantials and delicacles at your meals. Let me tell you part of what we usually had for breakfast. Fish, broiled spring chicken, mutton chops, broiled leef steak, bacon, were among the meats served, with fruits, vegetables, rolls, hot cakes, and numerous other dishes—all served promptly, the table linen and everything else as clean as it could be; and we always had plenty of time for our meals. Eveverywhere while traveling we found plenty to eat. Many of the western roads run dining cars on which meals are served a la carte, and a party of four can get a good meal cheap by ordering carefully. Indeed, some of our eastern railroads could learn valuable lessons on a number of subjects from the best roads in the West."

"How were the eastern people received at Los Angeles?"

"I have attended all the meetings of the National Educational Association but one, for many years." Dr. Lyte remarked, "and never were the members of the association received so condially as this year. Committes of the National Educational Association but one, for many years," Dr. Lyte remarked, "and never were the members of the association received so cordially as this year. Committes of Californians met every train of cars forty or fifty miles out from Los Angeles, and supplied the incoming teachers with all the fruits and flowers they wanted. The accommodations at Los Angeles were all that could be desired. They have learned the fine art of taking care of large crowds. By the way," Dr. Lyte continued, "the only place where I received the slightest discourtesy on my long trip was at Chicago on my way home. I carried a number of small drafts on a New York bank, given to me by one of our solid Lancaster banks. I had no difficulty in having a draft cashed anywhere except in the 'Windy City,' I went into the Bankers' National Bank, and was rather curtly received at both places. One of the minor officials told me at one of these banks: 'We don't have to cash drafts.' Whether he wanted me to go to a broker's office near by, I do not know. However, when I went to the Metropolitan National Bank in the Temple building, my draft was cashed without difficulty or delay, and with courtesy on the part of the officials I met."

"Were you not roasted at Los Angeles?"

"Roasted? The weather in Southern California is perfect. The days are not hot; the nights are cool, and in summer you have no fear of rain. During the convention I wore an overcoat every evening, and slept soundly under blankets every night."

"What are some of the most interesting sights on your Irip?" queried the reporter. Dr. Lyte sold: 'I can scarcely tell you. Probably the most interesting experience was the seventy-five-mile stage trip we took the*. The cafion, as we looked into its depths and saw the dashing river 6000 feet below five-mile stage trip we took there. The cañon, as we looked into its depths and saw the dashing river 6000 feet below five-mile stage trip we took them. The canon, as we looked into its depths and saw the dashing river 6000 feet below us, while turreted castles ond bold mountain peaks of the most varied and brilliant colors were seen in every direction, is actually beyond description—at least, it is beyond any powers of description I may have. We were thirty-nine miles from water—except the water in the inaccessible river—at the canon, and our drinking water we all thought cheap at 50 cents a quart. We met while there," continued he "an interesting character, who owns the stage line and houses on the route. He belongs to the class of men that conquered the wild West, and our party all odmired his rugged manliness, persistency and pluck, as he held the reins of four relays of eight horse each for fourteen hours while they dashed up and down hills, through ravines and along precipices, swinging after them a great Concord coach loaded with twenty passengers. But I can't talk of the canon trip; you haven't room in your paper for a complete account of our experience. After all," said the doctor, "we did not see any country more beautiful and prosperous-looking than our own Lancaster county. The West looks well this year. There is a great deal of snow on the far western mountains and the streams are full. There will be an immense corn crop in the Middle West, but light wheat crop. However, I could not help thinking as I rode out to Millersville on the trolley car on my way home that I had before me as beautiful a picture as the sun shines upon, and our people may well be proud of their country and contented with their part of the globe." "What of the meeting itself?" we asked.

But Dr. Lyte did not have time to enswer this question further than to contented with their part of the globe."

"What of the meeting itself?" we asked.

But Dr. Lyte did not have time to enswer this question further than to say that many of the leading members regarded it as the most successful, as it was the largest, in the Listory of the association. The following note from one of the leading education papers of the country, the New York School Journal, answers this question, however, and pays the president of the association a high compliment at the same time: "Taken all in all, the convention at Los Angeles was the most satisfactory in the history of the N.E.A. Its success amply justifies the absolute confidence the active members have had in the Executive Committee under the disinterested and wise leadership of the outgoing president, Dr. E. Oram Lyte. Not even the suggestion of criticism was heard. The absence of the finger marks of favoritism in the make-up of the programme, the fairness shown in the geographical distribution of representation, the care exercised in the selection of topics, the skill displayed in the appointment of committees and withal the gentlemanity fact and dignified bearing of President Lyte, did much toward greatly increasing the already high respect the people of the Pacific Coast had for the N.E.A. and workers in the educational field in general."

New Members Elected Yesterday.

For a National Convention.

The following-named business firms and individuals were elected to membership in the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the diectors yesterday:
Alexander & Beyrle, Field & Cole, Franklin Oil Company, F. F. Stetson & Co., East Side Canning Company, Nelsen Bros, J. U. Tabor & Co., J. F. Cuculits, E. J. Brent, Sutch & Deering Undertaking Company, W. B. Raymond, Graves Fruit Company.

A communication from the Buffalo Merchants' Exchange asking the Chamber to cooperate in promoting the holding of the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo in 1901, to the end that a creditable representation of the products and industries of this section might be made was referred to the Committee on Immigration.

A communication was read from C. B. Rockhold of Daggett, representing the Road Masters' Association of the Roadmasters' Association of America would hold a convention in Detroit, Mich., September 10. At this meeting the time and place of holding the next meeting will be decided upon and an effort is being made by the western members of the association to have Los Angeles selected as the place for the meeting, and the Chamber and other public organizations are asked to cooperate in an effort to get the convention here in 1900.

Attention was called to the early return of Battey D, and it was suggested that arangements be made to give the battery a royal reception. The Chamber will use its best efforts toward promoting such a feature, and a committee of five was appointed for the purpose of collecting funds. Those named are Messrs. Story, McGarvin, McKee, Stewart and Toll.

At times it has a most serious effect upon pre-existing mental disease, and it has been known to even produce an attack of insanity. In skilled hands, and wisely exhibited, hypnotism may be of wide benefit; otherwise, it is beset with deplorable dangers.

Health Officer Powers spent the entire day yesterday up the river making another inspection of the water supply of the city. From time to time during the past year Dr. Powers has followed the river almost to its source in order to prevent stockmen and ranchers from herding their cattle and other stock on pastures adjoining the river on which there are no fences. The Health Officer has succeeded in almost abating the evil, which is a violation of law, but it is necessary for him to make frequent trips in order to prevent repetitions of the offense. Some time ago he posted warning notices all along the stream. Aguinaldo, the leader of the Tagal rebellion, has much to say about Filipino "independence." the putative leader of a political party in the United States, which threatens an offensive if not a defensive alliance with Aguinaldo, has much to say on the same subject. It is a noticeable fact that these two blind leaders of the blind express sentiments more or less in common. Both are "agin government." The one is waging an active warfare, in which he has never won a battle, and will never win a battle. The other is keeping up a nasty fire-in-the-rear upon the menfrom the President down-who are defending their country's flag against its enemies. We have given to these people ample assurances of a free and liberal government-as free and as liberal a government as that enjoyed by any people on earth. But one of the essential conditions is that they shall cease their hostility to the American flag.

Will Mr. Bryan tell us what would | have been the result if the Cuban insurgents, after the Spanish forces in Cuba had capitulated, had arrayed themselves in open and armed hostility to the authority of the United States? If those men, our allies, had begun war upon the American troops in Cuba, would our soldiers have surrendered to them or would they have retaliated in kind, as did our troops in the Philippines when attacked by the Tagalos? Senator Lindsay of Kentucky, whose masterly address on the ethics of na-tional expansion before the American Bar Association at Buffalo, was published in The Times yesterday morning, is one of the big men of the Senate though doomed to stay there but a Watterson, bolted Bryan and the Chicago platform, and as a consequence he can see his end in Kentucky politics, There is scarcely a doubt that since Carlisle's removal to New York, Lindsay is the largest quantity intellectually in Kentucky, and for years he was regarded as Carlisle's sole rival at the bar of the State. Lindsay is a Virginian by birth, and self-educated. He began his life as a blacksmith, and went from the forge to the Confederate army. After the war he settled in Kentucky and worked by day and read by night. He has been Chief Justice of the highest court of Kentucky, and was elected a Senator to succeed Carlisle, when the latter committed political suicide by entering Cleveland's Cubinet. bar of the State. Lindsay is a Virana and moved with his parents to California when 6 years of age. He lived with them in different parts of Senator Lindsay's is six feet high and weights 260 pounds. Although he served four years as a private in the Confederate army his reputation for personal bravery had frequently been questioned by Kentuckians. An incident that occurred at Leuisville about four years ago had nearly as much to do with preparing Lindsay for retirement from the Senate, as his failure to support Bryan. Gen. P. Wat Hardin had long been Lindsay's friend and political the Senate, as a Bryan. Gen. P. Wat Hardin had long been Lindsay's friend and political backer. When Lindsay was elected to the Senate Hardin, then Attorney-managed his campaign. Lind-General, managed his campaign. Lind-say expressed his gratitude to his manager with great effusiveness, and pledged himself to support Hardin for anything he might have wanted politianything he might have wanted politically in the future. In 1895 Hardin was the Democratic candidate for Governor of Kentucky, on an advanced free-coinage platform. Lindsay failed to support him. Hardin met Lindsay in a public place in Louisville soon after the election and after denouncing him as a liar and an ingrate, slapped his face. Lindsay made no effort to hit back. It was clear to all present that he was afraid. When this incident got noised around Lindsay was marked for political slaughter, as the Kentuckians will not be represented in any capacity by a man to whom the stigma of personal cowardice attaches. Lindsay explained his attitude to his friends by saying that he would not engage in a street brawl, and that he had devoted his mature life to thought and study and that he firefulne. brawl, and that he had devoted bis mature life to thought and study and not to fighting. When Bryan was nominated at Chicago Lindsay declared that he would vote for him, though he was opposed to the platform. After a conference with Carlisle he revised his intention and declared that he would not vote for Bryan. Since then Lindsay and the Kentucky. Democrats have been at outs, and the last Legislature by a unanimous Democratic vote in both Houses, passed a joint resolution calling on him to resign. This demand Lindsay spurned in a spirited speech delivered in the Senate. Lindsay's term will expire on the 4th of March, 1891, when he will be succeeded either by a Republican or Joe Blackburn.

It is understood that Senator Quay of Pennsylvania has made a personal canvass of all the Senators-elect, with the view of ascertaining his chances of being seated on the appointment of the Governor of Pennsylvania. The Legislature of Pennsylvania failed to elect a Senator and soon after its adjournment Governor Stone appointed Mr. Quay. The Senate has several times decided four times in recent years, that when the Legislature of a State has an opportunity to choose a Senator and fails to do so, it does not come within the province of the Governor to appoint a Senator. But trusting to his personal popularity, Mr. Quay thought that he could induce the Senate to reverse its previous ruling, and admit him. It is understood that the responses received by Quay have not been favorable, and that he will be compelled to go before the Legislature of Pennsylvania again, before he can become a Senator. From present appearances there will be four vacancies when the Senate convenes. California, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Utah falled to elect Senators. The Legislatures of three of these states have Fepublican majorities, and one, Utah, is Democratic. Mr. Quay based his hope of being seated on the number of new Senators who will take their seats for the first time next December, and who are not committed to the traditions and precedents of the Senate, and on his popularity with the, old Senators. It is probably true that Quay was one of the most popular members of the Senate. He could control more Democratic votes on non-philitical questions than any other Senator. But the Senate is very conservative and clings to precedents as rigidly as the Supreme Court does. If there was a very narrow party margin in the chamber Quay would stand a better chance than he does at present. But the Republican majority in the next Senate will be ample, and there will be no need of reversig precedents to enlarge it. popularity, Mr. Quay thought that he is a slight indication of the royal

From present appearances there will be 51 Republicans in the next Senate, 27 Democrats, 3 Populists, 2 Silver Republicans and 3 Independents. This gives the Republicans a majority of 16 over the combined opposition, and a majority larger than that would be unwieldly. Of the eight Senators classed as Populists, Silver Republicans and Independents, Teller, Jones of Nevada, Stewart and Kyle have strong Republican predilections, and are generally found voting with the Republicans excepting on monetary legislation. Harris of Kansas and Heitfeld of Idaho are to all intents and purposes Democrats. to all intents and purposes Democrats, Butler of North Carolina and Pettigrew of South Dakota are irreconcilables. They are afflicted with political rabies, and snap, snarl and bite at everything that comes along. Pettigrew is able and dangerous; Butler's kind sit in tall palm trees and throw cocoanuts at passers. by.

In the press dispatches a few days ago came the following from Hawaii, a story so weird in the history of criminology, and yet so probable, that, if true, it is an interesting study in woman's emotions, and, if untrue, is no less interesting because of its possibilities of truth:

"A horrible crime occurred at Weima, on May 2. The wife of a ranchman killed her little stepdaughter by brutally beating her with a heavy stick. The crime was witnessed by a boy, who went to a neighbor's house and told the story. So enraged was the woman of the house on hearing of the crime, that she rushed to the other woman's cabin, bent on punishing the stepabin, bent on punishing the step nother. She did not attack the mur mother. She did not attack the mur-deress, but dashing through the door, caught up the woman's own child, also a little girl, and threw the little one head first against the wall, breaking her neck. The two women soon came to realize the enormity of their crimes, and buried the children together. They swore the other child to secrecy, but it swore the other child to secrecy, but i told other neighbors, and the were arrested. The double

The double crime was, no doubt, purely emotional, neither woman being intentional or premeditated crimi nal. A man could not have committed the second crime at all, and a man cruel enough to be capable of the first would have been shrewd enough in crime to have committed it differently, and to have also killed the only witness to his evil deed. A woman, carried away by stress of emotion, loses all idea of consistency, but her intentions lead her to conclusions faster than all a man's plotting in double the time. Had a man gone, in a fit of virtuous indignation, to punish the cruel stepmother, the unique idea of making her suffer through her own child would never have entered his head. He would have turned her over to the law, or let a mob loose on her. The acme and refinement of torture that the second woman inflicted would never have suggested itself to him at all. It took a woman, raging with all the intensity of the passion of motherhood, to see in a flash that through that passion could she best wreak vengeance, and hereoh, consistency! consistency! comes in thy perect undoing. Wrought to the wildest fury by the cruelty practiced upon a little child she could yet exceed the inhumanity of the other woman upon the flesh and blood of another little child. The subtle reasoning, the cunning of a male criminal, was eliminated from the minds of both women; there was neither reason nor cunning in their crime; the one woman probably did not, at first, have the slightest intention of beating her stepchild to death. She may have wished within her soul most fervently for the death of the child, but when she began to whip her she doubtlessly had no idea of killing her. Blind animal rage, that strengthened with every blow, and the consciousness that the little one was totally within her power, so worked upon her emotion that hate grew and the consciousness that the little one was totally within her power, so worked upon her emotion that hate grew and the consciousness that the little one was totally within her power, so worked upon her emotion that hate grew and the consciousness that the little one was totally within her the second crime at all, and a may cruel enough to be capable of the totally within her power, so worked upon her emotion that hate grew and grew into that ugly heat we call mur-

But now behold the climax of emo tional inconsistency. No sconer does this other woman, with a heart so ten-der as to be uncontrollably fired with hatred and revenge against the murder of a child, become the most inconsisten creature in the world by murdering the offspring of the woman whose barbarit creature in the world by murdering the offspring of the woman whose barbarity has enraged her, than the great blinding wave of emotion ebbs down, and she sees herself another criminal, a partner in crime, almost, with the creature whose villainy she has loathed. One would think that however much she realized the act of which she had been guilty, and its probable penalty, she would, upon an impulse of disgust for the other woman, have left the scene of horror and shame. Not she, Fear of the punishment to which she was liable under the law swallowed every other emotion; the knowledge that she, too, was a criminal, made her look with more favor upon the woman whose child she had destroyed, and the height of incongruousness is attained when the two "burled the children together," quite amicably, no doubt. The tempest was over; rage had spent it self; passion was exhausted. Like a lioness foaming with fury one minute and calmly sleeping upon her paws the next, the emotional inconsistency of the female organization had had its season of fulfillment, had worked itself out, and so, "they burled the children together."

PARIS EXPOSITION EXHIBITS. Commissioner-General Peck Ex

plains the French Regulations. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] DENVER, Aug. 30.-F. W. Pecl Inited States Commissioner-General to the Paris Exposition, adressed a gathering of prominent citizens at the Chamber of Commerce tonight on the relations of the United States to the exposition. He explained that according to the regulations governing the French exposition, each nation contributing exhibits must come as a na-tion, and that no States or sections are tion, and that no States or sections are recognized. Labels may show from what part of country exhibits come, but no special space will be allotted to any State.

Peck's suggestion for Colorado is that the output of Cripple Creek or one of the other gold camps of the State for a month be molded into a solid mass and bearing the certificate of the Director of the Mint, be forwarded as the representative of the Centennial State. Peck was the guest of honor at a banquet at the Brown Palace Hotel tonight.

MINES AND MINING.

THE TUOLUMNE RIVER BED TO B DREDGED.

The Black Hills, Aris, New Mexico' Fine Turquoise-Wolfram Deposits to Be Worked-Placer County Slate-The Wedge and

The San Francisco Chronicle re-ports that the Tuolumne River bed and bottom lands are to be dredged for gold, and that contracts for the pur-chase of the bottom lands for that purpose are now being made. On the same subject the Modesto says: "If an adequate area of river bed and former river bed represented by the bottom lands is obtained, the enterprise will no doubt be consum mated, for the Tuolumne was a golder stream in early days, and by no mean yielded all her treasure. Where bed-rock is reached today rich deposits are often found, and old gravel channels are yielding profits right along From $1 to $2 per day may be made with the pan in many spots along the stream."

THE BLACK HILLS, ARIZ. The Black Hills district, south front as a possible great copper-pro front as a possible great copper-producing section. It is within what is known as the Verde copper belt, and as the formation and character of the ore are similar to those of the United Verde copper mines, great things are expected from the Black Hills. Work has been commenced on several properties there, among them being the News mine, the Decatur and the Black Hills group.

NEW MEXICO'S TURQUOISE. F. A. Jones, director of the New Mexico School of Mines, writing in the Mexico School of Mines, writing in the Silver City (N. M.,) -Enterprise, says: "New Mexico is the producer of a very rare and precious stone—turquoise. This exquisite turquoise is considered by experts to far exceed in beauty the gems of the Orient. The American Turquoise Company, owning the turquoise mines near Certillos, was awarded the first premium at the World's Fair at Chicago. This same company and the Azure Turquoise Company in Grant county were each awarded gold medals and diplomas at the exhibit of the Omaha Exposition."

WOLFRAM DEPOSITS.

The announcement was made some few months ago of the discovery of few months ago of the discovery of what were likely to prove valuable deposits of wolfram in the Dragoon mountains, Ariz. Some small shipments of the ore were made at the time to Pueblo for the purpose of having it tested. Since then not much has been heard of these wolfram deposits, but it is now learned from the Arizona Republican that the sixteen claims located by the original discoverers are now owned by two companies, which are to be consolidated into one. There are some thirteen other claims in the same locality which are going to be worked by another company. This latter is said to be backed by a rich New York firm, one of the few in the United States dealing in wolfram. These companies intend uniting to put in a plant to concentrate, the ore.

CALIFORNIA SLATE. The Placerville, Cal., Republican says that the Placerville Slate Com says that the Flacerville State Com-pany, which acquired a large slate quarry in Placer county last year, has done splendid work on the property and shown it to be one of the most valuable of its kind in the United States. The company owns forty-three acres and shown it to be one of the most valuable of its kind in the United States. The company owns forty-three acres on the northern edge of the city facing Big Cafion, and are so situated that the expense of quarrying and moving the finished slate to the depot is reduced to a minimum. A gravity double-track tramway, operated at an expense for water of about 30 cents per day, brings the slate to the brow of the hill from the quarry 425 feet below. From the station at the brow of the hill the haul is all down hill to the depot. Experts declare that no finer article of roofing slate can be found within the limits of the United States than that now being worked by the Placerville Slate Company. The company is now busily engaged in filling a large order for the Mountain Copper Company of Shasta county, who are having all of the roofs at their extensive plant at Keswick changed from metal roofing to slate.

IMPORTANT CYANIDE TEST.

IMPORTANT CYANIDE TEST. The Colorado group, in the Royal Arch mining district, Colo., is to have cyanide plant on a large scale. The Denver Mining Reporter says the vein is 150 feet wide and has been opened on the surface 6000 feet. The proporty also has two tunnels which are erty also has two tunnels, which ex-pose 700,000 tons of ore, which av-erages $7. In gold and one ounce of sil-ver. The mill is put in to make a run on a large quantity to determine the requirements of its treatment.

NEW MEXICO'S COAL The immense coal beds of New Mex-ico cover an area of nearly 1,000,000 acres, and are considered by the New acres, and are considered by the New Mexico Mining Record ample to supply the great Southwest with fuel for centuries to come. The greater portion of this coal, it adds, is of a superior quality; some of which is peculiarly adapted to coking, making a product equal to the celebrated coke of Connellsville, Pa.

THE WEDGE, AT RANDSBURG. Late reports from Randsburg are that the Wedge mine is maintaining itself in good shape. A milling of thirty-five tons of ore gave $155.58. The Wedge is the only patented mine in the Rand district. The company has a balance on hand in the treasury of $3000. THE BUTTE MINE

The Butte mine, at Randsburg, lately acquired by Los Angeles parties, has three shifts at work and is now in ore that runs high in value. It is stated that the company will erect a mill on the property before the close of this year.

THE DEWEY MINE. It is reported that if Denis Clark, of Spokane, adheres to his decision not to take the Dewey mine, in San Diego county, that the mine will become the property of the Great California Min-ing Company, which already owns some twenty claims in the grapevine dis-trict, in which the Dewey is situ-MINING NOTES.

The De Lamar mines in Idaho, during the first eight years' management of the new company, produced 292,591 tons of ore, which yielded $6,323,000, of which $4,350,000 was paid in dividends, being 117½ per cent. of the original capital invested and leaving $170,000 in the reserve fund. The expenses of operation for the same period were $3,970,000.

Several rich silver veins have lately been uncovered, says the El Paso Times, in the mountains known as the Three Sisters, south of Deming and near the Mexico line. Some of the ore runs as high as 400 ounces of silver and 60 per cent. lead to the ton. Eastern parties are now negotiating for some of the mines.

The Silver King mine in Crook county, Or., has Just been sold for $1,000,000, says the Spokane Stock Report.

The mines of the United States in 1888 furnished 243,065 metric tons of copper, or 55.1 per cent. of the world's supply. Spain, the second in rank, reporting a total of $4,077 tons.

Bolivia is credited with having produced more than $200,000,000 in gold. The De Lamar mines in Idaho, during

WOMEN BARRED OUT.

Department and Bureau Chiefs Almost Invariably Ask for Men.
[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.] NEW YORK, Aug. 30.-A special

the Herald from Washington says:
"Women are practically barred of the government service in the departments at Washington. There is no here to exclude women from appoint-ment, but when there is a place to be filled, the head of the office almost invariably asks for a man. This right to discriminate between the sexes is recognized by the civil-service regulations, and when a requisition is made for a male clerk, stenographer or type-writer, the commission certifies only the names of men.

"Civil-Service Commissioner Harlow

"Civil-Service Commissioner Harlow said that the commission had a long list of women stenographers and type-writers eligible for appointment, but they could not get the appointing officers to take them.

"There are many little reasons,' said Mr. Harlow, 'which seem to influence the heads of government offices to prefer men to women. The principal one, perhaps, is that while women may do as well during the regular working hours, if there is a rush and it is necessary to work over hours, the work can be crowded on the better of the men than the women. The women are not so willing to work over hours, and the heads of offices feel more reluctant in asking them to do so, than they are with the men.'

"Chief Examiner Servin told me there were many reasons, small in detail, but important in the aggregate, which influenced heads of offices to prefer men to women."

but important in the aggregate, which influenced heads of offices to prefer men to women.

"The heads of offices,' said he, 'prefer men, partly because, in the event of a rush, they can work the men harder than they would like to work women. In addition to this, it is found that women cannot adapt themselves to as great a variety of work as can men. They may be all right in a certain line, but when they are put on something else it is very hard for them to get the hang of it. They are also inclined not only to insist on having all the privileges in the way of vacations and sick leave to which they are entitled, but they often expect special considerations and special favors. Of course there are exceptions, and many women are very efficient, but the heads of offices where both men and women are employed almost invariably ask for a man when they are filling a vacancy. "Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Vanderlip, who has general supervision of the clerical force in the Treasury Department, indorsed practically all that the officers of the civil service commission had said. He said it was undoubtedly true that women could not be driven as hard as men in a rush ice commission had said. He said it was undoubtedly true that women could not be driven as hard as men in a rush of work, and the heads of the offices in the Treasury Department almost invariably asked for men than for women to fill vacancies in their offices.

"He said this was probably due to the fact that there were in nearly every office women employed who are far from efficient. Some of them had grown old in the service. They were dependent on their work for support. pendent on their work for support Heads of offices were probably mor-rejuctant to recommend the dismissa of a woman than of a man for incompetency.

"In the Auditor's office,' said Sec-retary Vanderlip, 'men are generally preferred to women for the reason that ing with many matters in those offices In the office where most of the world is done directly for the Secretary's of fice, we have two stenographers—a man and a woman—and they are both very efficient, but the general tendency seems to be to prefer men, largely be-cause they can do more work under pressure and because of their greater adaptability to various work."

LUMBER TRADE BOOMING. Demand in Some Lines Unprece

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Coincident with the boom in iron and steel is the same showing in the lumber trade. Prices have gone up, due primarily to the great demand for the raw material which, in its turn, is due to the fac that money is plentiful, particularly in the West, from where a large lum-ber demand comes. John N. Scatcherd of Buffalo, president of the Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, sees in these increased prices a striking instance of the country's prosperity.

"The outlook in our business, as in other business," said Scatcherd, "is very encouraging. The situation is similar to that in respect to iron and steel—there is a lack in the supply of raw material. The demand for lumraw material. The demand for lumber usually follows in the wake of a demand for iron and steel, and in proportion as the demand for these latter increase, so does the demand for lumber increase.

"Referring more particularly to the hard wood outlook, I may say that the demand for oak, especially quartered oak, is unprecedented, while ash and maple are scarce. Men with whom I have come in contact report and maple are scarce. Men with whom I have come in contact report not only that they are getting better prices, but that collections are exceedingly satisfactory. At present we are getting most of our hardwood from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee and some from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee and some in Mississippi. We also, of course, import more or less from Canada."

In speaking on the subject of tariff Scatcherd said: "The tariff is no objection. When the demand is good, prices are high, and we can afford to pay the duty: when the demand is good for us for the reason that it keeps out of this country a grade of wood of which we and Canada, as well, have a surplus. Generally, the lumber trade is like all other trades—booming."

Are you ingenious? Have you the faculty of observation? Can you put this and that together in words and thoughts? If so, The Times will make it worth your while to read this article and to follow its suggestions.

It is hardly necessary to say that the advertising columns of a leading daily newspaper form one of its most interesting features. Not only do they present information that every buyer must have, but they are attractive from a literary and from an intellectual point of view. They suggest, they amuse, they instruct. There is a certain satisfaction in knowing what there is to be had and what must be paid, even if one does not care to purchase.

But all is not buying and selling, earter and trade, even in such prosaic things as business advertisements. There is romance in a "want ad;" there may be a story in a "six-inch double display."

double display."

Perhaps you've noticed sometimes what curious combinations occur in the headlines over the news matter. Thus, one heading over a political dispatch may say in large letters, "Mc-Kinley and Bryan;" the next item, telling of a legal suit may be headed "At Cross Purposes." Put them together and they read "McKinley and Bryan at Cross Purposes," which is a true and interesting statement.

Now, the advertising columns of The Times afford similar opportunities, and it is really amazing what interesting stories are contained therein. Advertisers nowadays talk briefly and right to the point; their statements are startling but truthful. They say what they mean and mean what they say. Then, how can a "story" be extracted from advertisements? We will show you.

The Times offers a prize of $5 to the person who compiles the best and most interesting statement or story from the advertising columns of together.

The Times offers a prize of $5 to the person who compiles the best and most interesting statement or story from the advertising columns of to-day's paper, taking the words literally from the advertisements and using no others. Single words or a single line, or single sentence, may be used, but no two consecutive lines or sentences.

but no two consecutive lines or sentences.

Cut out all the words, lines and sentences in the advertisements that you think can be put together so as to make an intelligible statement or story. After you have done this, begin to match them together as you would the pieces in a picture puzzle. You may have to rearrange them several times, as the words, lines and sentences must fit; they must "make sense." You may be able to make more than one story.

After you have finally arranged your clippings, paste them neatly and in consecutive order on a sheet of paper and mail them to the "ad-story editor," care of The Times. Entries in competition will be received up to midnight next Friday. The story that takes the $5 prize, together with the name of the winner, will be published in next Sunday's Times.

The following, taken from the advertising columns of last Sunday's Times, will serve to illustrate the method to be followed:

A San Diego collector who is also a member of the city board of delegates, in the latter capacity voted against a delay in pending proceedings against the infamous slot machine, and ten saloon-keepers sent orders to those who employ this conscientious man in the duty of collecting to take out their telephones. For concentrated meanness and devilish littleness, this takes the cake, in San Diego or anywhere else. This is an act worthy of the days of Cooper's "Bravo," when men stalked abroad in the night to assassinate their unsuspecting fellowmen. All extremes are reactionary, however, and this one will bring a host of friends to the courageous official, while it, also, will bring deserved contempt to men so small of soul as these saloon-keepers prove themselves to be. Out of ten men one would think there ought to have been at least one that was courageous enough to attempt a manly course in

The Santa Barbara Times correspondent tells of trouble brewing over oll derricks on the beach front, and says: "The fact has been closely guarded, but a vigilance committee has been secretly organized, every member of which has agreed to fight the oil derricks with violence if need be. This committee has as members many of the best men in Santa Barbara and Montecito. They have determined to provent the ruin of the beach by force if they cannot act by law." If this is true the eaemles of Santa Barbara will have great cause for rejoicing, as the overt act which resists statutory law overt act which resists statutory law will place this beautiful home town in the list of undesirable residence towns, and bring all sorts of trouble and disgrace to those who participated in the work. Vigilance committees to fight lawful business enterprises may find toleration north of the Arctic Circle but not in California. The "wealthy and influential men" mentioned in the correspondence would do well to remember that they have recourse to the courts, with several lines of attack, and that as conservers of the dignity and peace of the commonwealth, they have responsibilities not placed upon poor and uninfluential men. There is a dread passibility of reaping the whirlwind here. and bring all sorts of trouble and dis-

INDIFFERENT SUICIDE.

ONE GRAVE SUITS HARBUCK AS WELL AS ANOTHER.

"Bury Me in Any Old Place" are His Instructions to the Coroner. Burial Delayed on Account of the Corpse not Being Ready.

"You can bury me in any old place," is the message that Albert Harbuck left for the Coroner yesterday morning. Then he seated himself on the floor and shot himself through the head with a 44-caliber revolver. Although the bullet passed through the brain, going in a little above the right ear and coming out directly opposite, he was not killed instantly. In fact, he outlived the day, but death was only a question of hours from the begin-

Harbuck was a ranch laborer, about 40 years of oge, lately arrived from Ventura county, where he had been working. For about a year he has been making his home at the Miller been making his home at the Miller House, No. 230 East Second street, this city, when out of employment. He was suffering from venereal disease, for which he was being treated by Dr. H. S. Orme. The condition of, his health evidently made him despondent and weary of life. To escape the ills of the flesh he deliberately planned suicide.

He was seen about the house as usual yesterday morning. About 9:30 o'clock the report of a pistol was heard in his room. Investigation showed that he had spread a blanket on the floor by the side of his bed, sat down upon it and shot himself in the head, as already described. On the dresser was found a note addressed to the Coroner, and reading as follows:

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30, 1892.
You can hur me in any old place.

to the Coroner, and reading as follows:

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30, 1899.
You can bury me in any old place, as I have no relatives here to claim my body. I have $20 in First National Bonk, and 'tis all the money I have. (Signed) ALBERT HARBUCK.
But Harbück's body was not yet ready for the Coroner when the message was delivered. He was still alive, although unconscious. The patrol wagon was summoned to remove him to the Receiving Hospital, where Police Surgeon Hagan dressed the wound, but. pronounced the case a hopeelss one. Yesterday evening the patient was removed to the 'County Hospital, as it was thought probable he might live for several days.

Harbuck has no relatives here, but papers found in his valise made it appear that he has a brother, L. L. Harbuck, who is a farmer at Midway, Tex. This brother will be communicated with. Unless instructions to the contrary are received from friends or relatives in regard to the disposition of the remains in the event of death, which seems inevitable, the $20 in the bank will be used to give him as good a funeral as that amount of money will buy.

TROUBLE OVER A SANITARIUM.

TROUBLE OVER A SANITARIUM. Gregory Perkins, Jr., Trustee, Brings

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Riverside sings the following cheerful ditty, "The heat is welcomed by the orange-growers. The fruit is maturing finely, and the oranges have fewer blemishes than have been observed for years." Now let every man with a dollar's wenth of interest in Southern California take heart from these cheering conditions, and aid all in his power, by digging for water, to bring power, by digging for water, to bring the house thus Suit to Recover Property.

Ing conditions, and aid all in his power, by digging for water, to bring about the fruition of the hope thus given; i. e., the best citrus and deciduous crops for many years. Plan as if assured of a generous rainfall, and it is as certain as hard work and determined purpose can make it, that this end of the State will have a bank balance in its favor this winter.

The recent sale of the Cutting Fruit Company's four large cannerles in San Francisco, Sonoma, Colton and Santa Ana to the California Fruit-Growers' Association makes it certain that the canning trust on the coast is complete. Owing to the scarcity of labor the move may not affect the wages of operatives, but it is likely to place the small growers in a position between "the devil" of trust rates at the can "the devil" of trust rates at the can."

on Disturbance Charge. Henry B. Brown, a gambler, who has the reputation of being able to beat "Poker" Davis at his own game, was arrested yesterday on the charge of disturbing the peace in the Orpheum Annex saloon. Bad blood has existed between Brown and O'Connor, the proprietor of the saloon, for some time proprietor of the saloon, for some time on account of a disputed bill for drinks which O'Connor expected Brown to pay, but for which the latter repudlated responsibility. Yesterday morning Brown entered the saloon with some friends and ordered a round of drinks. O'Connor preferred his room to his patronage and ordered him to leave the house. Brown refused to go, and one word brought on another. The upshot of the quarrel was that O'Connor telephoned for the patrol wagon, but before it arrived Officer Edwards had taken Brown into custody and was walking him to the Officer Edwards had taken Brown into custody and was walking him to the station. Brown was released on ball and pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the Police Court on the charge of disturbing the peace. His trial was set for Friday at 9:30 o'clock.

The Santa Barbara Times correspondent tells of trouble brewing over oll derricks on the beach front, and says: "The fact has been closely guarded, but a vigilance committee has been secretly organized, every member of which has agreed to fight the oil derricks with violence if need be. GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

LESS TOBACCO. The government report just issued shows that during the fiscal year of 1898-99 this country manufactured for home consumption 4,529,872,304 cigars. This is an apparent decrease of 12,144,266 from the year be-fore. It should be stated that in April and May, 1898, when it was known that the tax was to be increased, there was a rush to get goods shipped out of the factories to escape the new tax, and it is estimated that about 120,000, and it is estimated that about 120,000,000 cigars were thus made in excess of the normal product. Thus the consumption of the year shows an increase for cigars. The tax on cigars amounted to $16,407,108 for 1898-99 against $13,620,049 in 1897-98, an increase of $2,681,058. The stogie districts of Pennsylvania show a decrease of 20,000,000 for the year, while the higher-grade goods show an increase of nearly 12,000,000; the cheap goods of Ohio fall off 19,000, but the Virginia cheroots and stogies show a gain of 10,000,000. The districts manufacturing fine Havana cigars from imported Havana tobacco show increases, Key West and Tampa
2,500,000 and New York gaining 14,000,000.

For ten or twelve years the product For ten or tweive years the product of cigarettes steadily grew, increasing from 2,151,515,360 in 1889 to 4,063,169,093 in 1897. Then came the anti-cigarette agitation, and the tax was advanced from 50 cents a thousand to $1.50. The effect is seen in the fact that this year that that a production expounted to 2 effect is seen in the fact that this year the total production amounted to 3,-735,698,906 only. For the eleven months closing May 31, the total exports of cigarettes was 1,064,517,000, as against 899,317,000 for 1897-98, or an increase of 105,200,000. The tax collected on paper cigarettes in 1898-99 was $4,203,735, as against $3,593,011 in 1897-98, an increase of $610,742. On all-tobacco cigarettes the tax collected was $547,415 in 1898-99, as against $405,676 in 1897-98, an increase of $141,738. se of $141.738.

99. as against $405,676 in 1897-98, an increase of $141,738.

In chewing tobacco there has been a heavy falling off. Missouri shows a decrease of 5,000,000 pounds last year, the Fifth Kentucky district shows a decrease of 4,500,000 pounds, New Jersey shows a decrease of nearly 5,000,000 pounds and the New York district, making the fine-cut chewing tobacco, has a decrease of 1,000,000. The decrease of 57,154,231 pounds in manufactured tobacco from a gress product in 1897-98 of 294,287,941 pounds would seem to be in chewing tobaccos rather than in smoking tobacco, although there appears little doubt that while the production of the cheaper kinds of smoking tobaccos has largely increased, the high-priced grades, selling at $1 a pound and upward, have greatly decreased in popularity. Once again the exports tell a different story. Last year there was exported 783,471 nounds. creased in popularity. Once again the exports tell a different story. Last year there was exported 783,471 pounds of plug tobacco, as against 709,648 pounds in 1897-98, an increase of 73,823 pounds for the year.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Speculative sentiment was unsettled today, and the course of prices changed several times and was very irregular all day. Net change are mostly on the side of gains and in a gray of incustrial specialties the closing was at the best prices, but in the railroad stocks which started off with quite a demonstrative of strength, net advances are generally below the extreme@rise. The upward impulse at the opening was due to the much more cheerful feeling in London regarding the Transvaal outlook. Buying for London account was about qual to yesterday's selling for the same account. There was some covering also by local bears, who sold yesterday on the Transvaal war scare. The active buying movement in the railroads fe' off very largely after the first hour. With the comparative duliness of railroads and a reaction in prices on realizing came renewed activity in the industrial specialties, which continued the rest of the day. The tobacco stocks and the local stocks were attacked by the bears for effect on the general market and Tennessee Coal was under pressure. On the other hand Brooklyn Transit continued to be vigorously supported with a view to the discomfiture of the short interest. Sugar showed symptoms of a desire to cover on the part of the bears. The iron [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] der pressure. On the other hand Brooklym Transit continued to be vigorously supported with a view to the discomfiture of the short interest. Sugar showed symptoms of a desire to cover on the part of the bears. The iron and steel group were benefited by the continued active demand for the republic steel issues which lifted the common stock 1%. In the late trading Federal Steel forged to the front and rose rapidly to 61%, an extreme 3%. The municipal stocks ralled from their previous depression and the rather buoyant tone of the industrials imparted sympathetic firmness to the railroad list. In the latter division of the market, stocks which suffered most acutely yesterday, were strong today, notably Louisville. Northern and Southern Pacific. There were evidences of individual strength in the Hocking Valley and Wheeling and Lake Erie stocks. Kansas and Texas preferred, Chicago and Eastern Illinois and Chicago, Great Western preferred "B" among the railroad stocks and Laclede Gas, North American and East and Faper preferred in the specialities. COY FEUD AND OTHER CASES IN ECORDER'S COURT.

Kinky Real Estate Transaction Leads to the Arrest of Andrew McCoy-Appeal Entered in Case of "Lottery Sam"-Suit Begun for Divorce.

PASADENA, Aug. 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] The colored population was much in evidence in the City Recorder's court this afternoon. For a time there was a regular procession of negroes up and down the stairs leading to the Recorder's office, and if glares and threats could kill, there would have been loss of life, for they were freely exchanged. A feud has been on between the MoCoys and the anti-McCoys for so long that some of the colored brethren have almost forgotten how it originated. The presence of so many of them in court today was caused by the filing of a complaint against Andrew McCoy by another negro. The complainant alleges that McCoy sold him a house for $15, the money having been duly paid and the transfer being considered complete. Subsequently, the complainant avers, he discovered that McCoy had previously sold the house to another member of the race, and it is therefore charged that McCoy accepted the $15 for property which he did not own, contrary to the statutes therein made and provided and against the peace and dignity of the State. The Recorder issued a warrant, and McCoy was arrested. Constable Manahan took him down to the Los Angeles County Jail, and later on the Recorder's court will try to all the complained that the remonths ago a horse was left at the ranch by parties unknown, and was pastured. Sixty days went by without anyone appearing to claim the horse or pay the pasturage. The case was reported to Constable Wailis, the horse ran away from his place and he the Shorb ranch. The bill for pasturage was $6,90. Thorne agreed to settle, but never has done so, and now the negro ranch hand wants to sue Constable wallis for the amount. The affairs of our old friend, "Lottery Sam," were aired again this afternoon, when an appeal was entered from the judgment of the Recorder's Jury, under which Sam was sentenced 40 twenty days in jail. The Chinaman was placed under $100 bail, and is at large was specified to settle, but never has done so, and now the negro ranch hand wants to sue Constable

Electric Franchise for Sale-Trouble Over Gambling Machines.

Over Gambling Machines.

SAN PEDRO, Aug. 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] The City Trustees Tuesday evening ordered an electric railway franchise advertised for sale. The order is practically in accordance with the petition presented by W. S. Hook of the Los Angeles Traction Company several weeks ago. The form of franchise to be incorporated in the advertisement provides that the road must be built of rails weighing not less than sixty pounds per yard. The grantee of the franchise must pave or macadamize the road between the tracks and two feet each side thereof in the same manner as is done by the city along the same streets. Cars must be run over the road same streets. Cars must be run over the road same streets. Cars must be run over the road same streets. Cars must be run over the road provided the road of the road children. Work upon the road must commot children. Work upon the road must commot children work in operation within eighteen monther the road be not fully completed and in operation within that time, the franchise shall be forfeited, as to the portion uncompleted, and, "in case any portion of said road is unused and unoperated with reasonable service for one month, then that part of the road shall become forfeited and become the property of the city." The franchise is to continue for fifty years.

All of the members of the board except try years.
All of the members of the board except resident Weldon voted in favor of adversing the franchise for sale. In explaining his to against it, President Weldon said he as in favor of having the life of the francise twenty-five instead of fifty years. The City Clerk was instructed to request rs. James H. Dodson to extend to January next the time of her offer to make certain fits to the city. Mrs. Dodson several months to proposed to give to the city a piece of x and one-half actes of water-bearing land, ten-acre reservoir site and a twenty-acre ark sits on destain conditions. The condions were that the city should annex the terrory, which has since been taken into the unicleality, and that the city should vote onds for a water-supply system. Her offer cuested to have stakes driven to show the route which it proposes that the city may have for right-of-way to the water front by way of Third street.

An ordinance was adopted regulating private connections with main sewers.

SLOT MACHINES AGAIN. SLOT MACHINES AGAIN.

The nickel-in-the-slot gambling machines threaten to give more trouble. The City Trustees a few days ago adopted an ordinance fixing a license of $25 per month each on those which pay winnings in cash and $1 per month on those which pay winnings in merchandise. A scheme is now proposed as a means of evading the ordinance. It is planned to operate the cash machines with coins of the size and weight of 5-cent pieces and exchangeable for either cash or merchandise. It is believed that with the control of the size and weight of 5-cent pieces and exchangeable for either cash or merchandise. It is believed that with the presence of the control of the size and each with the presence of the cash of the control of the size and each upon payment of only $1 per month each, under the pretense that they are merchandise machines.

Annie Curry, a colored woman, appeared Saturday night in masculine apparel, and was arrested by Deputy Constable Kahn. It was discovered that there is no ordinance against such unseeming conduct, so she was charged with being just a plain drunk. She pleaded guilty before City Recorder Downing, who imposed a $10 fine. The four-masted schooner, James Rolph, Capt. Deidrichs, is making her first visit to this port. The vessel is nearly new. She was built for the Hawaiian Island trade, but has been turned over to the lumber fleet. The Rolph has a carrying capacity of 700,000 feet of lumber.

Demand That Unpaid Fees Be Settled First-Young Burglar Sent to Whittier-Only One Forest Fire.

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 20.—[Regular Correspondence.] Rolfe & Rolfe, attorneys, have filed a claim in intervention in the Superior Court in the case of the people against the Grapeland Irrigation District, which was brought to disband the district. The firm seeks to intervene, because of claims they have against the district, aggregating several thousand doilars. In their petition they allege that for five years they were attorneys for the district, under a contract providing that they be paid $500 per year for the ordinary legal work of the district. Under this arrangement, the sum of $2500 is alleged to be due, besides $190.50 which the firm advanced in the way of expenses. The additional sum of $1201.75 is alleged to be due as extra compensation for court work, as stipulated in the contract. On account of these claims, they ask leave to intervene in the case, which permission the court has granted.

Stream of Asphaltum Worth Thirty Dollars a Ton-Brings Up Some Questions-Compromise Beach Oil Rights Talked Of.

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] A peculiar strike of semiliquid asphaltum has been made at the P. C. Higgins rancho in Carpinferia. A deep oil well was being bored there, but at a depth of 1250 feet a stream of asphaltum was tapped. Nothing was thought of this at first, but now the thing is serious in more than one way. The first strike was made three weeks ago. At that time the asphaltum rose a few feet in the five and five-eighths inch pipe. But since then $2000 has been expended in efforts to drill, but not once has a drie touched bottom. At 10 o'clock last night the asphaltum rood forty feet deep in the well, but early this morning it rose with great rapidity and at 8 o'clock the depth was 100 feet. The asphaltum is like soft mush and will need little or no refining. It is worth $30 per ton. The questions now present themselves as to how to get the asphaltum out of the well and of how to keep on boring. The well is the only one of the kind about here.

Edwin Sawyer of Montectio went with a witness last evening to see Mr. Humphreys, the wealthy Montecto man who has sold land on the beach for oil rights. Humphreys said no compromise could be made as money had passed between him and the oil men on the transaction. He also said that he had between 800 and 900 feet more of similarly located land which he would sell. Any one, he says, can buy this. An offer was, however, made to attempt to compromise with Prospectors Cody and Nelson if the citizens who objected to derricks would buy the 900 feet.

Some women at the critical period of approaching motherhood fortunately receive every care and attention which abundant means can bestow, but the vast majority of them are obliged to take care of themselves and do their own work into the bargain; and what woman with family duties dependent upon her can be expected to patiently endure the long-drawn-out weariness of waiting and hoping in sickness and wretchedness for a recovery that seems to come on leaden wings?

"My wife has been a great sufferer from troubles incident to approaching motherhood," says Rev. E. R. Nelson, of Darvilla, Dinwiddle Co. Va. "She suffered with such distressing sick stomach that she could not take food; what little was forced down could not be retained. Her breath was very offensive and indicated a bad state of the stomach. The digestive organs refused to work. The trouble became so severe and obstinate that I was really alarmed. She began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets' and about the same time I wrote to Dr. Pierce for particular advice. He promptly and very courteously replied, saying that he felt sure a persistent use of these remedies would prove effectual.

"By the time the letter was received she was improving fast and before all of one bottle each of the 'Pavorite Prescription' and 'Colden Medical Discovery' had been taken she was up, able to eat, retain and digest her food. She continued to improve until entirely well without taking more than the two bottles mentioned and some of the 'Pellets.'"

Accept no substitutes for these world-famed medicines, that may be urged upon you, not for your good, but that the dealer may make a little extra profit.

These remedies contain no trace of alcohol, nor opium, nor any of the dangerous drugs which enter so largely into many advertised "compounds," recommended for the cure of invalid women. They will not create craving for stimulants.

City Briefs.

Today is the set "Opening day" for fall and winter "Dunlap" hats. All the new styles in silk, stiff and soft hats are now ready. When it comes to fashion, Desmond, in the Bryson Block, marches at the head of the procession, never at the rear; follow him and you'll always be in the front row. This week he's also showing the best lines of $2.50 soft and stiff hats ever seen in this city. The Good Samaritan. Remember soft and stiff hats ever seen in this city.

The Good Samaritan. Remember the needy. Save your cast-off clothing, beds, bedding or stoves for poor families of the city. A request is also made for shoes and clothing for poor children. Drop a card to Fred Vrigsted, at the "Good Samarirtan" (formerly Capt. Frazier's place.) No. 135 East Seventh street, and anything you have to donate will be called for.

There'll be the biggest kind of a swell in trade today at Desmond's. His new stock of "Dunlap" hats has arrived. His new styles in neckwear are hummers, and are creating a hum and bustle of buyers in his store all the time. See his show windows today in the Bryson Block, No. 141 S. Spring st.

EXPECT TO PLAY BALL.

City Hall "Boys" Challenged by a Nine from the Courthouse.

The national game still prevails. There are numerous devotees of the sport whose labors ordinarily keep them close at the Courthouse, but Monday will be a holiday and they itch to cross bats with some team or other, and the following challenge was issued yesterday to the "boys" in the City Hall:

"To Walter F. Haas, Esq., City Hall: Kind Sir: It has been rumored that there exists in the minds of a few very fine fellows in the City Hall a suspicion that they, the said fine fellows in the said City Hall, know something of the national game of baseball. Having that they, the said the fellows in the said City Hall, know something of the national game of baseball. Having heard the said rumor, I, on behalf of the baseball 'push' of the County Courthouse do hereby proclaim as follows:

"A picked nine from the County Courthouse will play any old nine you can throw together from within the City Hall, a match game of baseball at Fiesta. Park next Monday at 2 o'clock, p.m., at which time and place an admission fee will be charged, the proceeds to be devoted to a fund for the reception of our returned soldiers. I address this challenge to you feeling that you will be abundantly able to stand the shock, and request an early reply. Assuming that the said game is not one prohibited by ordinance, does not conflict with the Whitney Act and has nothing to do with the water question, I anxiously await your answer. Sincerely hoping that we may get a chance next Monday to add to the reception fund aforesaid, and at the same time take a "fall" out of the City Hall nine.

second base; Johnny Stockwell, shortstop; J. H. De la Monte, third base; Lester Robinson, left field: Ernest Hutchinson, center; H. Werden, right field. The captain of this stellar aggregation is Dist-Atty. Rives.

At the City Hall no particular attention was paid to the challenge, though it was talked of in a general way. It is believed, however, that a game can be arranged for, and Carl McStay, Deputy Superintendent of Streets; is endeavoring to organize a team from the City Hall. The game is to be umpired by Deputy District Attorney C. C. McComas. Those interested believe that a considerable sum can be realized to be contributed toward the reception to be tendered Battry D.

IN FRONT OF A CAR.

Buggy Wrecked and the Occupant Has a Narrow Escape:

DEATH RECORD.

Mrs. J. W. Kessler of No. 987 Ver-nont avenue had a narrow escape from being crushed to death under the wheels of a trolley car yesterday afternoon. As it was her buggy was wrecked, and she sustained several painful injuries.

Mrs. Kessler was driving eastward on Ninth street, and at Stewart street she attempted to cross in front of an east-bound car. The motorman sounded a warning, and reversed his lever as quickly as possible, but a collision was unavoidable. The buggy was demolished and Mrs. Kessler was thrown violently to the ground, striking on her head. She sustoined several severe contusions of the scalp and injuries about her body.

Dr. Cates was soon on the scene and attended to Mrs. Kessler's injuries, after which she was sent to her home in Breese Brothers' ambulance.

OUT OF THE TRACES. go and Great Western Said to

Be-Notes and Personals. The Chicago and Great Western Railroad is said to be again clear out-side of the traces, so far as the Western Freight Association and the Western Passenger Association are con-cerned. The local railroad men pretend to ignore the big line, but when it was out some months ago it gave them considerable trouble. It is said here that the other roads will not route via the recalcitrant.

half year ended June 30, payable October 2, Usually the summer season is a light one for railway freight carriers, but this summer activity seems to be the rule. Shipments from Chicago bound east continue heavy, and a dearth of cars in which to transport commodities is causing railway efficials no little trouble.

Speaking of the general conditions in railroad business, President Callaway of the New York Central says: "The fact is, we are short of cars. Since I have been here this company, has bought 6000 new cars, but it is a difficult matter now to get cars enough to move the freight that is offered. The increase of $1,000,000 in New York Central enrnings last month was a memarkable showing. That, together with the outlook this month, indicates a good condition of business all over the United States. The three or four good crops that this country has had seem to have started up every branch of industry. I believe that we are going to have a first-rote fall business. The freight that is moving now consists of general merchandise. Pagsenger traffic is also very heavy."

The all-rail east-bound shipments of dead freight from Chicago the week before last were 96,711 tons, ogainst 95,792 tons the previous week, and 51,288 tons the same week last year. Total all-rail shipments from January 1 to August 12 compare as follows:

In 1899, 3,145,671 tons: 1898, 2,996,306; 1897, 2,027,673; 1896, 2,182,739.

and Gulf road is to begin at an early date.

The July net earnings of the Atchison system were $978.'19, an increase over the same month in 1898 of $498,-420.

Some one has figured out that it will require 22,500 trains of forty cars each to handle the corn crop of Kansas this year. The total length of the trains would be 6818 miles.
